AUTO MAKER WILL DIRECT FOREIGN AID PROGRAM

BY DONALD SANDERS

Washington, April 7 (AP)—The Senate confirmed Paul G. Hoffman, to direct the European recovery program today. The action came just four days after enactment of the $5,300,000,000 plan to help western Europe back on its feet.

The action was unanimous and by voice vote. The Senate acted within 35 minutes after its Foreign Relations committee approved Hoffman, 13 to 0.

Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Corporation, was selected late yesterday by President Truman to administer the $5,300,000,000 western European recovery program.

Before the committee acted, members questioned Hoffman behind closed doors for approximately an hour and a half.

Mr. Truman penned his signature to the nomination document while reviewing an Army day parade.

The auto manufacturer, just returned from Japan where he made an industrial survey for the army, told a news conference last night he had accepted the job because "it may be the opportunity to put up a fight for peace."

"On a very hard-boiled appraisal, prosperity is one of the very best antidotes to Communism," he said.

Hoffman said there is reason to believe western Europe will do its best to cooperate in the self-help program which will be his primary responsibility.

The South Bend, Ind., industrialist said he received the offer of the $20,000-a-year, cabinet rank position while en route back from Japan.

He talked it over with Mr. Truman at the White House yesterday noon and, he said, "I told him that I did not know how to say no."

Democrats Pick One Anti-Truman Man in New York

New York, April 7 (AP)—Ninety uninstructed national convention delegates were elected by each of the two major parties in New York state yesterday with the G. O. P. choices all informally committed to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

One of the Democratic delegates chosen, state assemblyman Philip J. Schupler of Brooklyn, has been outspoken in his opposition to President Truman. He has announced Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as his choice.

Schupler is the first Democratic National Convention delegate elected who is openly anti-Truman.

New Soak-the-Rich Budget Pummeled By British Press

London, April 7 (AP)—Britain's new "Soak-the-Rich" budget got pummeled and praised in the British Press today.

Papers to the left and in the center approved the proposals presented to the House of Commons yesterday. Papers to the right gave them a rough going over.

The new fiscal policy would cut taxes in the lower brackets and make up for the cuts by compelling some of the wealthy to pay more than they earn from their investments.

Tenant Admits Grisly Fire Murder Of Aged Sturgeon Bay Woman

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., April 7. (AP)—A first degree murder charge will be filed today, Dist. Atty. Edward Minor said, against a tenant who told police he struck his aged landlady with his fist and then thrust her body into a blazing furnace.

The victim of the grisly slaying was 85-year-old Mrs. Richard P. Cody, a former socialite, whose charred remains were found among the furnace ashes in her three story mansion Monday.

Minor said William Drews, 50, who rented half of a two-apartment home from Mrs. Cody, broke down under questioning last night and told authorities he had killed the aged recluse Friday morning.

On Saturday, he added, he married Mrs. Julia Smith, about 36, a widow with four children who occupied the apartment adjoining Drews'. He told the police he gave his bride $110 which he took from Mrs. Cody's purse, Minor said, but told his bride he made the money in a real estate deal.

According to Minor, Drews told police the following story:

He want to Mrs. Cody's home Friday morning to ask her for money. She admitted him, but denied his financial request. He then struck her with his fist and she fell to the living room floor, her nose bleeding.

He went through her purse and took the $110 and heard her moan several times while he was doing this. Then he picked Mrs. Cody up, carried her to the basement and thrust her head first into the blazing furnace.

He insisted Mrs. Cody was dead when he placed her in the furnace, although he had struck only the one blow.

Minor said Drews had a previous marriage and that his first wife had burned to death in an automobile accident near here about two years ago. He is the father of two girls, Patsy, 17, and Audrey, 8.

Mrs. Cody was the widow of a prominent attorney and bank president who died in 1908. Her only daughter, Irene, died four years later, and after that the one-time social leader withdrew virtually into the life of a recluse.

TRUCK SITDOWN PROTEST ENDED

Pennsylvania Turnpike Freight Jam Broken

Carlisle, Pa., April 7. (AP)—Heavy freight trucks lumbered along the Pennsylvania turnpike today as a mass "sitdown" protest of drivers ended as spontaneously as it had started.

Only a few scattered stragglers remained of the hundreds of cargo carriers which were parked along the eastern terminus of the modern toll road for almost 48 hours.

Scores of the trucks roared into life and lumbered off during the night. Special police were assigned at strategic points near the turnpike entrance to aid traffic flow.

John Nichols, of Liverpool, Pa., one of the truckers, said after a meeting last night that a delegation would visit Harrisburg today in a last effort to achieve relief from present weight restrictions.

Pennsylvania law limits gross weight of trucks to 45,000 pounds. The truckers objected that they were "unable to earn a living" under the limitations.

The line of trucks, estimated by police to number over 1,000 at one time, started to dissolve yesterday after police began weighing the trucks with portable scales. A few truckers whose vehicles exceeded the weight limit went to jail when they were unable to pay fines.

Arab Force Attacks In Upper Galilee

Jerusalem, April 7 (AP)—A large Arab force resumed its attack on the embattled Jewish settlement of Lehavot in upper Galilee today.

The first thrust was launched last night when several hundred Arabs assailed the collective settlement. The Jewish army was reported returning Arab fire.

Police said a plane, believed to be Jewish, dropped five bombs early today near Kastel village, five miles west of Jerusalem on the Jerusalem Tel Aviv road.

SECRECY VEILS BERLIN DINNER

Montgomery Talks With Russian Zone Chief

BY JAMES DEVLIN

Berlin, April 7 (AP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery went back to London today after dining here last night with Soviet Marshall Vassilly D. Sokolovsky.

Montgomery's meeting with the Russian zone commander was described officially as a social occasion, but surrounding secrecy led to speculation that they discussed deteriorating relations between Russia and the western Allies.

The chief of the British imperial general staff's visit to Germany was for the announced purpose of visiting military establishments. It coincided, however, with the East-West crisis over Russian restrictions on rail traffic by the western Allies as well as the fatal crash of a Siviet fighter plane and a British transport. Fifteen persons were killed in the collision.

The Russian command here has expressed its regret about the accident.

A Moscow radio broadcast today said Monday's crash between a British Viking transport and a Soviet Yak fighter occurred when the British plane "shooting out of the clouds, cut into the Yak's tail."

Reports from London said Montgomery is expected to confer with British government leaders on his talk with Sokolovsky.

Wet Weather Hits Widespread Areas

Chicago, April 7 (AP)—A variety of wet weather dampened widespread sections of the country today.

Rain fell in many areas. Hail pelted regions of northern Missouri. Temperatures dropped to below freezing in parts of the Dakotas and Montana and light snow was reported in some cities, including Billings and Havre, Mont., and Minot, N. D.

Fair weather and above normal temperatures were reported in the central and west Gulf states and the southern plains.

Monks Burned Alive In Monastery Fire

Shanghai, April 7 (AP)—The Chinese press reported today 20 Buddhist Monks were burned alive after refusing to flee their flaming monastery.

The fanatical monks chanted scriptures while the ancient building burned yesterday at Chinkiang, 140 miles west of Shanghai.

SIGLER UNDER PRESSURE FOR HIGHER TAXES

LEGISLATORS SEEK STIFFER LEVIES ON HIGHWAYS

Lansing, April 7 (AP)—Governor Sigler was reported to be under heavy pressure today to let the legislature vote on higher highway taxes as the price for adopting the bulk of his legislative program.

The House resolutions committee released for action by the full membership a Senate-approved resolution calling on Sigler to permit consideration of highway taxes.

At the same time, the committee reported out a resolution providing for final adjournment of the legislature April 14.

This was considered a "squeeze play" with the committee virtually threatening the governor with adjournment before his legislative program is acted on unless he opens up the subject of increased gasoline and weight taxes to finance road improvements.

Pet Ideas Knifed

(The legislature in a special session can consider only those subjects which the governor permits.)

Some legislators said they thought Sigler was weakening on his previous flat refusal to consider higher road taxes, but there was no confirmation from the executive office.

The Senate judiciary committee scheduled a meeting today on six constitutional amendments in its files amid predictions that some of Sigler's pet ideas would be knifed in the committee room.

It was reported the committee will release for action on the floor Sigler's proposal to amend the constitution to let the legislature fix salaries for itself and state officials. The wages now are set by the constitution. Committee reports said it also might release the Sigler amendment to take the sales tax diversion repealer off the November ballot. This was being done, it was said with the idea it could be killed easily on the floor.

Senator Bion L. Ates (R-Ovid) is reported to have collected enough votes to defeat the amendment and leave the repeal question on the ballot.

An uncertain fate awaited these other constitutional amendments:

Ford Says Russians Should Be Told Off, Sweden Is Scared

New York, April 7 (AP)—Industrialist Henry Ford II thinks "the Russians have to be stood up to and told off."

The president of the Ford Motor company arrived here yesterday with his wife after an inspection tour of Ford plants in Europe.

The couple was met by their two daughters, Charlotte, 7, and Anne, 5, as they disembarked from the liner Queen Mary.

In an interview, the youthful automotive firm executive said that "the Russians are blocking the return of economic stability to Europe."

"The farther east you get towards Russia," he said, "the more talk you hear about Russia. The feeling, however, is not that war is inevitable. The general feeling is Europeans is one of fear of Russia. The Swedes are in the middle of it and they are scared to death."

Billion Promised Latin America to Fight Communism

Bogota, Colombia, April 7 (AP)—United States officials said today Latin America can count on at least $1,000,000,000 in aid from official agencies to help fight Communism. Three quarters of this, they said, would come from U. S. agencies.

The officials said that under present plans the Latin Americas could obtain about $750,000,000 from the U. S. export import bank. Another $250,000,000 is reported available from the international bank for reconstruction and development.

The officials said this was only part of the aid the American Republics may obtain as a result of discussions at the Pan American conference now in session here. The rest is expected from private sources.

Grand Haven (AP) — Teachers in Grand Haven and Spring Lake schools will receive $400 pay increases during the next school year, superintendents E. H. Babcock of Grand Haven and J. E. Holmes of Spring Lake announced Tuesday.

Stassen Holds Lead In Wisconsin Voting; Dewey Whitewashed

BY JACK BELL

Milwaukee, April 7 (AP)—A smashing victory by Harold E. Stassen promising him upwards of 20 of Wisconsin's 27 GOP national convention votes threatened today to push Gen. Douglas MacArthur out of the presidential race.

Stassen held fast to late-count leads—some slim but some so big the result no longer was in doubt—in a score of the 27 delegate contests involved in yesterday's primary.

His candidates staved off with a rally in mid-day tabulations a challenge by 2 MacArthur aspirants to move into the circle of seven at-large delegates where Stassen's slate has led almost from the first.

With 2,619 of the state's 3,138 precincts reported, the lowest man on the Stassen slate of seven widened his vote margin over the top man of MacArthur's slate to 1,962.

The tabulation, which included 390 of 579 precincts in Milwaukee county where MacArthur's delegates ran well, gave the nod to Stassen's-at-large delegate, Walter J. Kohler jr., 192,007 votes.

The low Stassen candidate, George Greeley, had 168,962 votes. This compared with 167,000 chalked up by Fred R. Zimmerman, leading MacArthur candidate.

But Stassen faces a new, and perhaps more vigorous, test in next Tuesday's Nebraska primary. There he and six other GOP hopefuls—including Dewey and MacArthur—will bid for popular support.

He will face Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio in that contest for the first time. Taft winds up an in-person campaign there today.

Dewey flies to Nebraska today to start a two-day tour tomorrow. Stassen goes there tomorrow.

Dewey was badly hurt by the Wisconsin results—especially because of his last minute decision to campaign here personally.

MacArthur needed a majority in the state where he keeps his legal residence to make himself the sort of darkhorse threat who would be appealing elsewhere.

Most politicians thought that Dewey lost out here because a great many Wisconsin Republican voters had decided the New York governor had his chance in 1944 and somebody new ought to be tried.

BILL FOR STATE FBI CONSIDERED

Secret Agency System Backed By Sigler

Lansing, April 7 (AP)—A bill to set up a powerful subversive activities squad in the state police and repeal the 1947 Callahan Foreign Agent Bill was before the House of Representatives today.

The measure was backed by Governor Sigler.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Harry J. Phillips (R-Port Huron), would permit the state police commissioner to set up the squad, hire secret outside help, keep secret files and forbid publication of the expenditures of the squad.

The new squad would "investigate activities in the state, subversive of state or federal government" and permit it to cooperate with military and other federal authorities.

In his fourth message to the legislature yesterday, Sigler asked that the question be considered along with repeal of the Callahan Act.

Questioned by newsmen, Sigler admitted the hiring of secret outside help permitted a spy system. in that," he said. "I wouldn't have gotten any place when I was in charge of a grand jury if I hadn't been able to secretly hire outside help."

State Homage Paid Houghton Senator Who Died Monday

Lansing, April 7 (AP)—The Senate paid homage today to the memory of the late Senator Fred W. Burritt of Houghton, who died Monday.

The chamber delegated Senators Joseph P. Cloon of Wakefield and George Girrbach of Sault Ste. Marie to represent it at Burritt's funeral Thursday.

The Senate adopted a resolution of sorrow which said "Because of his sincerity of purpose, his high ideals of public service and his unfailing spirit of cooperation, his absence will be keenly felt by his colleagues in the legislature."

RAILWAY STRIKE THREAT REVIVED

Unions Leave Door Open For Negotiations

Cleveland, April 7 (AP)—Three railroad unions renewed their strike threat today, but left the door open for further negotiations with the nation's carriers.

General chairmen of the engineers, firemen and enginemen, and switchmen rejected an emergency board's recommendations in the dispute, but declared:

However, the wage and rules committees of the three organizations are willing to meet them (the carriers) at an early date in an endeavor to negotiate the recommendations of the board into a form that will be acceptable."

They recommended yesterday that if a settlement was not reached by April 27, "a strike date shall be set as soon thereafter as possible."

There was no immediate comment from the carriers, who already have accepted the board's findings. The board recommended a 15½-cent hourly pay boost and certain rule changes.

Jackson Man Held In Mailbox Thefts

Washington, April 7 (AP) — A Jackson, Mich., man has been arrested in Tacoma, Wash., in connection with letter box thefts and check forgeries conducted "on a nation-wide pattern," the post office department said today.

He was identified as Raymond J. Karasek, 26.

Karasek, the post office said, has admitted to postal inspectors the theft of "hundreds of government and other checks from the U. S. mails," and had cashed more than $11,000 in forged checks in San Francisco, Kansas City and Seattle.

When arrested yesterday at Tacoma, Karasek told police his home was in Chicago. No date was set immediately for his arraignment.

Blame for Plane Crash at Berlin Shifted By Reds

Berlin, April 7 (AP)—The Russians threw the blame for Monday's Soviet-British plane crash on the British today. British officials said the Russian story was "palpably untrue."

A Russian investigating commission charged the crash, in which 15 died, was caused by British violation of Allied regulations. The commission said it occurred over a Russian airport in Berlin and that the British pilot failed to comply with four-power Allied control council regulations by flying over the Soviet traffic zone.

A Moscow radio report said the air collision was caused by a British airliner coming down out of a cloud and colliding with a Soviet fighter.

Hoodlums Nabbed For Wrecking Cafe

Mt. Clemens (AP) — Four more youths accused of participating in the wrecking of a Roseville restaurant Monday night were arrested in Detroit Tuesday. Nine of the 40 young hoodlums who caused extensive damage at the Drive-in restaurant were taken into custody a few hours after the incident.

New Finnish Treaty With Russia Not So Tough As Expected

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 7. (AP)—Finland appears today to have won the first round in its struggle to escape complete domination by Russia.

This was the initial reaction of some diplomatic authorities here as they began a detailed study of the new Soviet-Finnish military pact.

It remains to be seen, however, whether the Finns will be equally successful in the second round—when parliament takes up the issue of ratifying the proposed treaty.

In Moscow where the pact was signed yesterday Finnish Premier Mauno Pekkala described Russia's attitude as "benevolent." And President Juho K. Paasikivi was said in Helsinki to be "satisfied" with the terms.

Nevertheless, American authorities say they expect the proposal to be thoroughly debated in parliament. A majority thus far has opposed entering any military commitments with Russia.

The treaty draft as announced by the Moscow radio last night appeared reassuring here on several points:

1. It would commit Finland to act only within her own boundaries against any "aggression" by Germany or a nation "allied" with Germany. The Finns had sought this limitation so they would not be committed to send troops to fight elsewhere for Russia.

2. If in the course of their defense the Finns needed assistance from Russia it would be given only upon "mutual agreement." Presumably therefore Russian troops would not enter Finnish territory without prior negotiation.

3. No new peacetime bases are provided for the Russians on Finnish territory. Thus the dangers to Finnish independence which might have arisen from increased contingents of the Red army on Finnish soil appears to have been averted.

SOCIALIST WINS IN MILWAUKEE

Voters Pick Zeidler, 35, For Next Mayor

Milwaukee, April 7. (AP)—A 35-year-old Socialist will take office in two weeks for a four-year term as mayor of Milwaukee.

Youthful Frank P. Zeidler yesterday defeated his non-partisan opponent, Henry Reuss, 118,956 votes to 93,415 on the basis of unofficial returns from 443 of the city's 460 precincts.

The election of Zeidler, a civil engineer and school board member, returns the city to the Socialist administration which governed Milwaukee from 1916 to 1940.

Strangely enough, it was Ziedler's older brother, Carl, who ended the Socialist tenure by defeating Daniel W. Hoan. Carl Zeidler, strictly a non-partisan, enlisted in the Navy shortly after his election, however, and was lost at sea during the war.

Eighty-year-old John Bohn succeeded Carl as acting mayor and subsequently was elected to a full term. He was not a candidate for re-election.

The defeated candidate, a 36-year-old attorney and a political newcomer had the support of Milwaukee's daily newspapers, the Journal and Sentinel.

Zeidler and Reuss were picked as finalists from a field of 15 candidates in Milwaukee's March 16 primary. Zeidler led in that race, too. Building up an 11,000 vote plurality over Reuss, who placed second.

Hoan also made another bid for the mayoralty, but after being badly beaten in the primary he threw his support to Zeidler.

Clown Drops Dead On Radio Program; Widow Carries On

New York, April 7 (AP)—Albert V. Adams, 48-year-old famed English clown, fell dead of a heart attack at the microphone during a radio interview last night.

His wife, Louise, who had performed with him around the world for 20 years, thought at first he was clowning when he collapsed at her side.

The (WJZ) program was cut off the air.

An hour later the widow was back at Madison Square Garden going through her antics in the final dress rehearsal for today's opening of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus.

FIRE DESTROYS HANGAR

Detroit (AP) — A hangar at the Hartzell airport in Nankin township burned to the ground Tuesday with an estimated loss of $5,000. The fire occurred just half an hour after Owner Douglas Shutterfield had signed a contract leasing the hangar. Three planes were destroyed.

JOHN L. LEWIS FIGHTS ORDER TO END TIEUP

CONTEMPT CITATION HANGS OVER MINE WORKERS

Washington, April 7 (AP)—John L. Lewis today asked a federal court to throw out an order requiring him to end the coal strike. The court set Monday for a hearing on the plea.

Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who fined Lewis for contempt in a 1946, strike, received the petition and set the date for the hearing.

Goldsborough's office said his action automatically holds up the effect of the temporary restraining order against the 24-day-old strike.

The justice department had been planning to ask a contempt citation against Lewis and his United Mine Workers for ignoring the order. The question whether the department would proceed, in view of Goldsborough's action, was not immediately answered.

Law Challenged

Lewis's lawyers had asked for a hearing Friday but Goldsborough put it off until 10 a. m. (EST) Monday.

On that day also Goldsborough is scheduled to hear the government's request for a preliminary injunction to replace the restraining order, which expires Tuesday.

The Lewis motion challenged the validity of the national emer-

Oil Tank Explodes At Bangor; Two Men Critically Injured

Bangor, Mich., April 7 (AP)—An oil tank explosion critically injured two men here yesterday.

The explosion occurred as Arthur Mueller, 32, part owner of the Du-Well Metal Products Corp. and August Welle, 45, a machinist, drilled a hole in the tank.

They were taken to South Haven hospital where their condition was reported critical.

The men, according to investigators, were using a torch to cut the hole in the tank which they believed empty. Sparks ignited a small quantity of oil in the bottom of the vat, resulting in the explosion.

Veteran, 27, Named Mayor of Gaylord

Gaylord (AP) — Ray Culliton, combat veteran who was shot down over Berlin in 1944, claims the title of Michigan's youngest mayor. Culliton, 27, was unopposed Monday for election to that post after winning the nomination earlier over Elmer Widrig. Widrig had served five years as mayor.

Rev. Dunleavy Advises Economic, Ideological Approach To War Threat

The Rev. T. Parnell Lunleavy, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Sault Ste. Marie, addressing an Army day audience of approximately 500 in the William W. Oliver auditorium here last night, advised restraint in the use of the "military weapon" to combat the spread of Communism and urged an "economic and ideological" approach to end the threat to world peace presented by Russian aggression.

Presenting the argument against universal military training, the speaker, a veteran of World War II who served aboard an assault transport ship as a Navy chaplain, emphasized that the "military weapon should be used only as a last resort because its use means war, and brandishing this weapon provokes war."

"The National Guard and reserve units are fine things because they are voluntary," he said, "but the plans for universal military training sound like the plans for a glorified Boy Scout camp."

Would "Ruin Morale"

He charged that UMT will "ruin the morale of our young men because outside of the thrill of war and adventure, the armed forces have little to offer or rather to force upon these youths except a job * * * and the usual divertisements of Army camp life—wine, women and song * * *."

Father Dunleavy said, however, that "if war with Russia is necessary to destroy Communism, let's get ready for it now. The best defense is a good offense. Maybe we'd better even start it."

But if war is not immediately necessary, he urged, why not try the other weapons we possess, the economic and ideological weapons? "And why not use them with the same zeal and force we give the military method?"

Draft Industry, Labor

He suggested that industry and labor should be drafted to help the oppressed, that farmers should be drafted to feed them and that capital should be drafted to assist the project.

"Which is the more humane way to fight a war — with our children's lives or with tractors, fertilizers, food, money?" he asked.

Speaking in favor of the Marshall plan toward this end, he said "We can do more without hurting ourselves. We can ration our food, our liquor, our luxuries. Better to make these sacrifices for security than to offer human sacrifice."

Referring to the ideological weapon as a means of assuring national security, Father Dunleavy said that the Communistic philosophy of life, contrary to man's true nature, is Russia's "Achilles heel" and that "we must prove to the world that our way of life is better and the only one conducive to general happiness and universal peace."

Return To Christianity

Pointing out the failures and inconsistencies of our American, democratic way of life, Father Dunleavy stressed that "there is but one thing for us to do. * * * We, as a nation, must return to the truly Christian democratic way of life that made our country great. * * * If the brotherhood of man in the kingdom of God is to be established, it must be established here."

The pastor's talk climaxed a two-hour program in observance of Army day arranged by the military affairs committee of the American Legion national defense unit. Participating groups were the veterans' organizations, Company C, Delta county National Guard unit, Orange and Black club, Escanaba high school band and the Army recruiting service.

The invocation was given by the Rev. James G. Ward, pastor of St. Stephen's Episcopal church. Mayor Marvin L. Coon delivered the address of welcome, and Tom Beaton, jr., introduced members of the defense committee and Major Edwin J. Leer, officer in charge of Army recruiting in Escanaba. The speaker was introduced by James G. Ward, jr., chairman of the military affairs committee.

Spicing the program was the showing of an Army sound motion picture film entitled "The Winning Team", the story of how the various arms of the Army work together for maximum effectiveness in combat.

Mother and 2 Sons Escape Death For Slaying in Georgia

Americus, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Death sentences imposed on a 40-year-old Negro woman and her two teen age sons for the slaying of a white share-cropper have been commuted to life imprisonment.

Judge William M. Harper of Southwestern Superior court ruled yesterday that Rosa Lee Ingram and her sons were convicted on circumstantial evidence and that under Georgia law he thus was permitted to set aside the death penalty.

National attention was attracted to the case by the youth of the two boys—Wallace, 16, and Sammie Lee, 14.

Counsel for the Ingrams' said last night it had not been decided whether to appeal to the Georgia supreme court. The Ingrams would become eligible for parole after serving seven years.

Mrs. Ida Jane Smith Dies; Was Resident Here For 20 Yeors

Mrs. Ida Jane Smith, 56, a resident of Escanaba since 1928, died at her home, 411 Ludington street, at 9:15 last night.

She was born Oct. 24, 1891, in Johnstown, Pa. Her husband died last March 3.

The body was taken to Boyce's funeral home, where it will be in state this evening. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday, and burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery.

She is survived by three brothers, Sheldon, Pierce and Harvey Homer, all of Johnston, Pa.

WARD EMPLOYE BADLY BURNED

Norman Lauscher, 22, Victim of Explosion

Norman Lauscher, 22, of Rte. 1, Lake Shore Drive, was critically burned in an alcohol explosion in the rear of the Montgomery Ward store Tuesday afternoon at 5:25 o'clock. The explosion occurred when Lauscher was emptying alcohol from a drum onto the ground and into a fire which he had previously lit.

The container had been emptied except for a very small quantity of alcohol anti-freeze. Lauscher was removing the drum from the store to a warehouse in the rear of the property. He poured a portion of the alcohol onto the ground and lit it with a cigarette lighter. Then he held the drum over the fire, intending to drain the few, remaining drops of the liquor still in the container on the fire. Fumes in the drum exploded, spewing flaming alcohol over Lauscher's body.

Lionel Presdeau, another employe of the Ward store, was near Lauscher at the time but escaped injury in the explosion, which ripped open one end of the barrel with a crash that was heard for several blocks.

Lauscher ran across the alley and rolled on the ground in an effort to squelch the flames. He arose before the fire was extinguished and was again engulfed with flames. Neighbors brought out blankets that were used to cover Lauscher, finally smothering the fire. Virtually all of his clothes were burned away.

All of Lauscher's body except his feet were burned in the fire. He was removed to St. Francis hospital in critical condition.

Go To Iron Mountain—Escanaba council members are planning to attend a reunion of the Royal and Select Masons at Iron Mountain Saturday. The four council degrees will be conferred by Manistique, Marquette, Bessemer and Iron Mountain in this order.

Obituary

GEORGE KULOCK

Largely attended funeral services for George Kulock, aged LaBranche resident, were held Tuesday at 9 a. m., from St. Michael church in Perronville. The requiem high mass was celebrated by Father Francis Gimski and the choir of St. Michael's sang the funeral mass.

During the Offertory, Mrs. B J. Johnson sang "Pie Jesu."

Pallbearers were Michael Slaga, Joseph Shiverski, Vincent Mazur, John and Joseph Pach and Andrew Gebor.

Among out of town persons attending the services were Mrs. Joseph Bush, Mr. and Mrs. John Koth, George Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nekoza, Robert and Bernard Nekoza, and J. W. Jackson, of Chicago; Mrs. Norman Kell, of Milwaukee; and Mr. and Mrs. George Kulock of Rock.

Burial was made in the family lot in Holy Cross cemetery in Escanaba. Boyle Funeral home was in charge.

Matt Smith Heads Notre Dame Club

M. N. Smith of Escanaba was elected president of the Notre Dame Hiawathaland club for the ensuing year Monday evening at a meeting here celebrating annual Notre Dame night. The banquet meeting and program was held in the marine room at the House of Ludington with about 25 members present.

Smith succeeds Norman Bartholomew of Iron Mountain as president of the club. The Hiawathaland club consists of Notre Dame men in Menominee, Marinette, Iron Mountain, Marquette and Escanaba communities.

Other new officers are Atty Michael Khoury of Marquette, vice president; Emmanuel Pancheri, Quinnesec, treasurer; Atty Mike O'Hara, Menominee, secretary.

The program following the banquet included the showing of a sports film depicting highlights of Notre Dame football; and a radio address by Fr. Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame.

LAW REQUIRES MILK COOLING

Dairy Farmers Urged To Use Proper Methods

Proper cooling of milk and cream is important to dairy farmers, for they can save losses to themselves and assure a higher quality milk reaching the market, according to J. L. Heirman, Delta county agricultural agent.

Air cooling of milk is a poor method at any time of the year, and is very ineffective during the warm nights of spring and summer, the agent pointed out. Consequently, considerable warm milk may be rejected by inspectors during the first warm days of spring, because some producers have not started placing their milk cans in tanks of cold water for proper cooling before milk delivery.

Recently all Michigan dairy plants were warned by letter from the state department of agriculture not to accept milk that was not properly cooled.

Starting April 1 all the agriculture department's inspectors began checking on the quality and temperature of milk received at plants throughout the state, and they will reject milk that does not meet the 60 degree temperature standard set by law.

The farmer can save losses for himself by properly cooling the milk before the first real warm weather arrives. The quality of the milk will improve and the dairy industry of the state as a whole will benefit.

Dairy farmers who have milk cooling problems are invited to discuss them with County Agent Heirman.

Ishpeming Plans Legion Convention

Ishpeming—A full schedule of business meetings, social sessions and recreational events is being planned for the 28th annual convention of the Upper Peninsula association of American Legion posts, which will be held in Ishpeming July 16, 17 and 18, under sponsorship of the Ishpeming post.

The tentative program, drafted by the convention committee at a meeting here Sunday with officers of U. P. Legion organizations, promises a full round of activity.

Plans call for the convention to open Friday afternoon, July 16, with business sessions, for which the principal speakers will be representatives of groups and organizations interested in the affairs of veterans, such as the Veterans Administration, Office of Veterans Affairs, Michigan state employment service, Michigan veterans trust fund, Legion Billet and service officers.

EHS Students Will Present Operetta

Music students of Escanaba senior high school will present the ever-loved Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "H. M. S. Pinafore" in William W. Oliver Memorial auditorium next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The cast of nine and chorus are directed by Miss Jesse Wick, local music instructor in Escanaba public schools. Rehearsal has been under way since February and Miss Wick yesterday stated the operetta already showed polish and smoothness.

Nancy Flink will play Little Buttercup and John Degnan, Bill Bobstay. Ernie Belanger and Jim Prokos take turns playing Dick Deadeye, and Fred Johnson will play Ralph Rackstraw. Captain Corcoran will be the role of Gus Anderson and Donn Ohlin. Josephine is performed by Ann Hendrickson. The Right Honorable Sir Joseph Porter, Knight Commander of the Bath, falls to Merle Nelson. Cousin Hebe will be played by Beverly Peters and Bob Becket by Jim Chapekis.

Both performances next week are at 8:15 p. m. Tickets are available from students.

K. of C. Officers Inspect Boysville

Joseph N. Lequia of Escanaba, district deputy of the Knights of Columbus, has returned from a meeting of state officers of the K. of C. at Detroit, and an inspection trip to Boysville school at Macon, which the K. of C. will operate.

Boysville is established as a counterpart to the famed Boystown of Nebraska. It is planned to open next fall. Boysville is a joint project of the five Catholic dioceses of Michigan and the state's Knights of Columbus.

Members of the Boysville board of trustees from the Upper Peninsula are Bishop Noa, Fr. Emil Beyer, and E. J. LaFreneiere of Marquette, and Gervase T. Murphy of Calumet.

Mrs. Lequia accompanied her husband to Detroit, and visited Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lequia and grandson, David, at Ferndale.

Pvt. Ned Rosenthal's Body Being Returned

Mrs. Adrian Joint of Racine, Wis., former resident of Escanaba, has been advised that the body of her son, Pvt. Ned Donald Rosenthal is enroute to the United States for burial. Full military services will be held in Racine. A sister of the young soldier, Mrs. Myra Pfleger Tardiff of New York, will go to Racine for the funeral.

"Rented the first day" said Smith.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL SELL GUM

Funds To Be Used For Welfare Programs

The Escanaba Kiwanis club will operate 50 gum vending machines at various locations in the city to raise funds for its underprivileged children's work and other welfare projects, Kyrn Bloom, president, announced today.

The vending machines, which will offer four different flavors of gum, will be placed in public buildings, stores, offices and industries, which have agreed to cooperate with the Kiwanis club's money raising project.

Some of the machines will be placed on display in Ludington street store windows this week. Kiwanians will have charge of the distribution to locations on Monday.

During the past several years, the Escanaba Kiwanis club has given annually at least $150 to provide milk for needy children in the special rooms of the public schools. The club also has given financial support to the Boy Scouts, and other boy's work and welfare activities.

Arthur W. Erickson is chairman of the gum vending project committee. The Kiwanis club has engaged the Trams Vending Service to maintain the automatic venders. Each machine will bear a Kiwanis club emblem and sign, explaining the purposes of the project.

MANAGER PLAN POLL SOUGHT

Marquette Councilman Wants Opinions

Marquette, Mich. — Suggesting an inquiry to "find out what the citizens are thinking" about the city manager form of government, Commissioner Lee McGinley, in a statement to the commission Monday night, said he had heard comment that the manager plan is "unsatisfactory as compared with the previous administrative setup" and although he did not imply that City Manager James R. Pollock is not doing a good job, Mayor James J. Beckman and the other members of the commission immediately endorsed the manager system and rebuffed McGinley by voicing strong support for Pollock.

"I'm for the city manager 100 per cent," said Commissioner John Tierney.

"We have been unusually fortunate in finding a man like Mr. Pollock to take that job," Mayor James J. Beckman stated.

"Whenever we have assigned requests and petitions to the manager, we have received excellent reports and received them promptly," Commissioner William H. Schneider said.

"I'm very well satisfied with the city manager," Commissioner Leo Bruce declared.

McGinley's statement, which was received and placed on file, brought into the open rumblings of dissatisfaction which have been heard recently. There have been reports of the organization of a so-called "taxpayer' association."

Rumors of discontent followed the recent increase in light and power rates and presentation, in March, of departmental budget requests for 1943.

Services Thursday In Rapid River for Mrs. Margaret Hill

When you use high protein King Midas Flour in making up these rolls, you can be sure they'll turn out light . . . tender . . . rich with mellow, wheaty flavor. And King Midas makes yeast doughs that are easy to work with, too.

QUICK PARKERHOUSE ROLLS

1 cup milk
1 package yeast, compressed or dry granular
1 tablespoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
3 cups sifted King Midas Flour
3 tablespoons melted shortening

Scald milk. Cool to lukewarm. Add yeast, sugar and salt. Add 1 cup flour and beat until smooth. Beat in shortening. Add remaining flour. Knead until smooth and satiny (about 5 min.). Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (about 30 min.). Roll dough ¼" thick on lightly floured board. Spread with melted butter or margarine. Cut with 2" biscuit cutter, fold each biscuit in half and seal edges firmly. Place rolls close together on greased baking sheet or in pan. Let rise until doubled in bulk (15 to 20 min.). Bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) about 15 min. Yield: 2 dozen rolls.

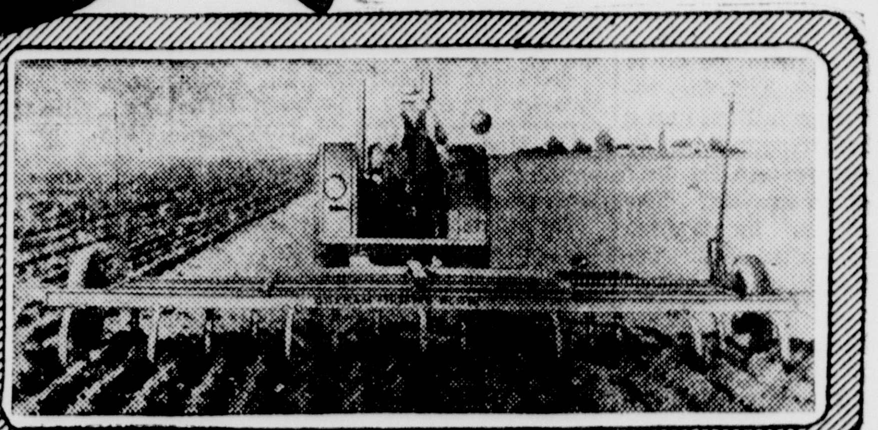
The GRAHAM-HOEME PLOW

The Revolutionary Plow

Self Sharpening Points • No Side Draft
Extra Light Draft • Nothing to Grease
Plows All Types of Land Without Adjustments
Prevents Erosion by Wind and Water
Cuts Plowing Cost in Half
Doubles Sub-Soil Moisture
BUILT TO LAST A LIFETIME
KEEP VEGETATION ON TOP

Nature's own method is to keep vegetation on top. That cuts down evaporation, keeps the soil in place in spite of heavy winds. The Graham-Hoeme Plowing Method with the two-inch chisel, as shown in illustration, permits water to by-pass the top soil into the sub-soil. It's a moisture storage center.

WE HAVE 'EM ON HAND



Manufactured by GRAHAM-HOEME PLOW CO, Inc. AMARILLO, TEXAS

PROVEN FACTS

On the average, enough rain falls on your farm every year to make fine crops. But, after the first few minutes of rain a smooth surface seals itself, causing run-off. It has been scientifically proven that the same field will NOT seal itself when plowed with the Graham-Hoeme All Purpose Plow with a 2-inch chisel furrow every 12 inches. This method by-passes the rainfall through the top soil and keeps a straw mulch on TOP. Upwards of three times the moisture enters the ground.

If the next day is fair and hot, the bare soil would soon be steaming and losing its moisture rapidly. BUT NOT IF THAT GROUND IS COVERED. The Graham-Hoeme Plow leaves vegetation on top to shade and protect, and moisture stays in the soil longer to bridge between rains.

These are not just opinions, but proven facts. A covered corrugated field in a good, brisk rain, will absorb 200 per cent more moisture than a bare field and 60 per cent more than a field with vegetable matter plowed into the surface. To supply this covering for the soil without the expense of artificial cover, and to place the soil in a condition to by-pass the moisture through the top soil is the purpose and achievement of the Graham-Hoeme Plow.

The Value Of One Vote

REGARDLESS of the vote certified by the board of canvassers tomorrow or the outcome of a recount in the event one is conducted as a result of Monday's municipal election here, the returns of the voting as they now stand unofficially should encourage heavier voting in future elections in Escanaba.

Many people have developed a habit of staying away from the polls on election day because of a frustrated feeling that their votes are unimportant in the final result. How often have you heard this feeble excuse for not voting: "I didn't vote because my lone ballot wouldn't make any difference in the final count"?

The unofficial but complete returns from Monday's election, however, vividly portray the fallacy of this excuse. One lone vote may well decide not only which candidate will be seated on the city council but may also determine the control of city government during the next four year period. Also the single vote margin may vastly influence the complexion of the Delta county board of supervisors during the same period as the council by majority vote will select three additional representatives of the city to sit on the county board of supervisors, in addition to the members of the council and the city assessor.

If ever an election result displayed the great value that must be attached to each and every ballot cast at the polls, the returns from the municipal election in Escanaba Monday did that.

It is appropriate, too, to point out not only the importance of going to the polls and casting your vote, but also the importance in fulfilling that obligation correctly according to law.

A number of ballots in Monday's election, the exact number still unknown, were invalidated because the voters used check marks to indicate their selections rather than crosses, as required by law.

The intent of the voters was obvious enough in examining their ballots but the law specifically voids ballots marked with checks instead of crosses. That means that such ballots had no bearing at all in the final tabulations and the electors who marked them improperly may as well have stayed home.

Showdown On Coal Strike

COAL MINERS have steadfastly refused to obey the dictates of a federal court injunction directing them to return to the coal pits in the interests of national health and safety. In the meantime the impact of the coal strike, now in its fourth week, is being felt with increasing severity by American industry.

The situation is rapidly reaching a showdown that constitutes the most critical test of the Taft-Hartley act thus far. The injunction was issued under the provisions of the labor law that Lewis has avowed to defy.

Lewis has insisted that he did not order the walkout, that the coal miners simply walked off their jobs when the operators failed to agree to pay a $10 a month pension to retired miners from the welfare fund collected through the payment of 10c a ton royalty on all coal mined.

Despite the contention of the union boss, there is no doubt that he was instrumental in fomenting the strike and it is equally certain that the miners would quickly return to their jobs if John L. Lewis said so.

The miners and the union cannot hope to win their case against the authority of the United States government. If they continue to defy the court injunction, they face fines for contempt that could reach astronomical proportions. Such fines can also be implemented with jail sentences if the necessity arises.

It appears that Lewis is more interested in showing his contempt and his scorn for the established laws of the country than he is in reaching agreement on a reasonable pension plan for the coal miners.

UN Rebukes Russia

A COMMITTEE of the United Nations atomic energy commission Monday shelved Russia's atomic control plan as inadequate and unrealistic by a vote of 9 to 2 with Russia and the Soviet Ukraine voting against the majority.

The decision of the committee was no surprise. It has long been evident that the Russian plan was unsatisfactory because it failed to provide either adequate means for international inspection or punitive methods for violators.

Before the vote was taken Andrei Gromyko, the Russian delegate, charged that the United States had decided against trying to reach agreement on world atomic control. The charge is the result of a half-truth. The United States has just about abandoned efforts to attain international control of atomic energy, as the Russians allege, but that is so only because we shall not accept anything less than absolute guarantees of adequate controls.

We have the atomic bomb now and we are the only country that does have it. We have already displayed our sincerity in seeking international control of atomic production by offering to share our knowledge with the world but we insist that it shall be done only when we are convinced that our safety is assured beyond any room for doubt or suspicion.

Until such time as the Russians are willing to go along on such a plan, and also willing at the same time to demonstrate a sincere desire for world peace and international cooperation, we cannot yield the advantage that we now possess in the field of atomic energy.

MAIL SERVICE

(Menominee Herald-Leader)

C. I. Markert, railway postal clerk of Ishpeming, writes: "After reading the attached (a news article titled: "Gripes Bring Better Mail Train Service.") from the Marquette Mining Journal I am compelled to be an old meanie and write you, showing what you really have accomplished. You have succeeded in delaying the mail service for the rest of the peninsula two hours and 15 minutes. You have succeeded in getting an afternoon delivery or next day delivery, for your mail, intended for Escanaba, Marquette, Negaunee and Ishpeming, instead of a morning one. You have succeeded in delaying your mail intended for the Soo, a small matter of 18 hours.

"Victory is a great thing, really something to be proud of, but when it comes to cutting off your nose to spite your face that is something else. The attention of your Chamber of Commerce and those who griped so loud should be called to the above."

Markert's letter leaves us like a man awakening from a dream. What victory? What gripes? What changes? All we know about the North Western Railroad's revision of train service caused by John L. Lewis' coal strike is that it denied Menominee same-day mail delivery of much mail. Revision of the original revision of schedule didn't correct this condition satisfactarily. If it made matters even worse for our neighboring cities to the north the protests from that direction should be even louder than ours. Our nose is on our face, but our temperature is rising.

SIGLER ANNOUNCES

(Detroit News)

Gov. Sigler's announcement that he will seek a second term as governor confirms prior reports about his intention. A two-year term allows any governor too short a time, a fact markedly true in Sigler's case.

Advancing his program this year—"in governmental reorganization, constitutional revision, mental health and our financial tax structure"—would not be possible if he were a retiring governor. To carry it out even partially, the time until January, 1951, when a second term would end, may prove to be insufficient.

Sigler's zeal to serve in behalf of reforming and reorganizing the state government is a credit to him.

CALLING ON THE TVA AGAIN

(Milwaukee Journal)

President Truman has directed the Tennessee Valley authority to draw up plans for increasing power output for emergency needs. Vast amounts of electric power are needed for the production of aluminum, especially. The metal is wanted for the new plane building program.

The TVA played a great part in the production program in World War II. Now in another crisis, when we must prepare a defense program to prevent war or to meet war itself if that should become unavoidable, TVA is called upon to do a big job.

This is a measure of the importance of TVA.

Nobody enjoys being bothered—but it's still a lot nicer than being totally ignored.

A FEW POINTS OF ENGLISH

(Pinup Item for Bulletin Boards)

Not, "He was drug for 40 feet." "Drug" as the past tense and past particle of drag is dialectal. Better say: He was dragged for 40 feet. The ship dragged her anchor. The river was dragged for the victim's body.

Not, "He was sentenced to be hung." "Hung" is the correct tense and past participle of hang. However, it has long been good usage to use "hanged" in reference to the death penalty, as: He was sentenced to be hanged. He will be hanged for his crime. He was hanged yesterday at the state penitentiary.

Otherwise "hung" is correct, as: The picture was hung over the mantel. He hung his head in shame. The picture had hung there for years.

Not "We like three of having a majority." Misuse of "like" for "lack" is especially common in the South and West. It is dialectal; better avoid it. Correct: We lack three of having a majority. We lack sufficient time to complete the work. There is a great lack of food in Europe.

Not, "You cannot return to class without an AD-mit." This mislocution is rather prevalent in our schools, and teachers should guard against it, for there is no such noun as admit. Speaking of an "admit to class" is as dialectal as speaking of an "invite to a wedding." The word admit is a verb, and the first syllable should not be accented.

Correct: You cannot return to class without a permit. This permit will admit (adMIT) you to class.

Not, "She is sick to her stomach." One cannot be "sick to." One may be sick in bed, sick of flattery, sick for one home, but never "sick to" anything. Better say: She is sick at the stomach.

Note. In English usage, the word sick is usually restricted to the meaning of nauseated—sick at the stomach. Otherwise the word "ill" is used. This distinction is not observed in American usage. Too, there are indications that "sick" for "ill" is gaining ground in Great Britain, doubtless the result of American influence.

World Events Analyzed

Washington.—What is happening in Berlin today was clearly foreshadowed by a highly secret report sent some weeks ago by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who is the man on the spot in the present grave peril. In fact, it was Clay's report which precipitated President Truman's call for the draft and the other moves aimed at alerting this country.

Part of the report, with its forecast of a showdown that might mean war, was communicated to the Senate armed services committee. It precipitated a long and solemn discussion that got down finally to what policy should be followed with respect to the families of American soldiers and civilians stationed in Berlin.

The fear of "another Bataan" was frankly expressed as the possible fate of the Americans on the lonely island of Berlin was debated. Gen. Clay was urging that nothing be done to upset the precarious balance inside Germany.

He knew the effect on the jittery German population of an order evacuating American wives and children. The repercussions would spread throughout Europe.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, INCIDENT

This is a real threat to the American position. But a parallel threat is the danger of war hysteria in the United States which would express itself, not in a firm resolve to be strong, but in senseless jitters. An example is the report of a recent incident in the Middle West in which the house of an alleged Communist was attacked by a mob and destroyed.

How to strike a balance between what to tell and what not to tell is one of the problems most troubling to those who are trying to formulate policy. They quote James L. Reston of the New York Times, who said about Congress: "If you tell them too little they go fishin', and if you tell them too much they go crazy."

The present tendency is to hold back in the belief that any further warnings will produce more jitters rather than more action. For most of us living several thousand miles away from the continent of Europe, it is difficult to realize the fearful realities of the present moment.

But those who live on the ramparts have few illusions. A recent report from France gives this a fateful emphasis. The present government represents a heroic effort to steer a middle course between the extremes of Communism and de Gaulleism. Within this embattled government it is clearly realized there could be no resistance to Russian armies of invasion.

REVOLT IN INDO-CHINA

The most highly trained French troops—perhaps 150,000—are in French Indo-China trying stubbornly to put down a revolt in that tragic colony. Any attempt to resist an invading Soviet army would in all probability precipitate a sort of civil war within France.

That is why the approach of an invading army, in the event of war between Russia and the United States, would be likely to bring the following sequence of events. The present middle course government would resign, to be followed by an all-Communist government.

The new government would ruthlessly suppress any attempt at opposition. It would welcome in the Soviet troops as defenders of a "free" Europe from the threat of "imperialist" America. Clearly, the possibility of a large organized resistance movement such as functioned in France throughout the last war, cooperating with British and American agents, would be remote.

That is why French leaders of the middle course are putting a question that comes to visiting Americans like a dash of ice water. Has the time come to form the basis of a government-in-exile which could be removed at the first threat either to London or to Washington?

The startled American in turn puts a question. He asks: But what can we do to prevent such a catastrophe? And the response comes: Do you have a million and a half or two million trained troops that you could send immediately to western Europe?

This last hardly takes an answer? The state of our unpreparedness in trained manpower is advertised daily. The Russians have exact information on the situation inside France.

They might well believe that by moving now they could consolidate western Europe, with its 270,000,000 people and its great resources of industry and science. That is the threat in the grim testing of force taking place on the island of Berlin. And meanwhile we are in the middle of a coal strike that the law may be unable to end, and Congress passes a tax reduction bill.

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

A GOOD DAY—Jim Rouman of the Escanaba high school faculty, who has taught fly casting in adult education classes, and who is one of a growing number of trout fly fishing enthusiasts in this area, spoke to the Escanaba Rotary club Monday noon at the Delta hotel.

"People usually start off by asking what kind of a day is good to go fishing," said Jim. "They want to know about clouds and clear sky, wind direction and water. And I tell them it is a good day to go fishing any day you can get away from your wife."

Jim smiled when he said it. And we are informed by a usually reliable source that the attractive Mrs. Rouman aids and abets her husband in his fly fishing hobby.

* * *

FISHERMAN'S JACKET—Jim keeps most of his trout fishing equipment in one jacket. "It saves time," he said. "You slip into it and you're ready to go."

To advise the Rotarians on what is essential to trout fishing with flies, Jim unloaded the jacket and enumerated the equipment it contained:

Fly books, containing large and small flies for both wet and dry fishing.

"A bottle of mosquito dope, a trout fisherman's constant companion."

Finger nail clippers to cut leaders.

Line dressing.

Chamois skin to dry flies when dry flies are wet.

Some finger nail clear lacquer to keep dry flies drier.

Safety pin to use in opening the eyes of fish hooks.

* * *

NOT SO WEIGHTY—In addition to the above, the trout fisherman carries a fly rod, envelopes himself from the waist down in waders, wears an old hat and a look of anticipation.

He puts on the look of anticipation first and the waders last. The waders "are kind of hot," Jim explained.

At this point in his talk Jim suggested that every fisherman take a boy along with him. At first we thought he might need help in carrying his equipment, but this was not so. It was to encourage a kid, your own or the neighbor's to get out in the open and have fun away from city street corners.

Besides, we learned that a fly fisherman's equipment is about the lightest there is. The rod, for instance, is made of split bamboo—six strips of it in the one Jim displayed. It is eight and one-half feet long and weighs only 6½ ounces. There is a reel but it is sort of incidental—"just something to carry the line."

* * *

NO QUARREL—Jim Rouman is not one of those trout fishermen who scowl at "plunkers"—the guys who fish trout with a gob of worms on a big hook attached to a 16-pound test line. He loves all fishermen so long as they are sportsmen and keep within the law.

"Fishing benefits everyone who does it, says Jim amiably.

But you could tell that Jim believes fly fishing has it all over bait fishing for sport. Fly casting, he pointed out, originated in England, where the anglers line the streams and get a bigger thrill out of hooking one big old gol-socker of a trout than in catching a creel full of smaller ones. The same idea is catching on among anglers in the eastern U. S., says Jim, who fished out in New York state.

THE BIG ONES — Flies are more likely to give you the big ones—and it's a trick to land a 2 or 3 pound beauty on tackle where the leader has only a 1½ pound weight test. It takes skill. The trend toward fly casting for trout is gaining popularity in the Upper Peninsula, Jim declared.

* * *

THE MIDDLE WEST—"From Boney Falls down, the Escanaba river offers some of the best brown trout fishing waters in the Middle West," Jim said. "And brown trout on a dry fly is a fisherman's fish."

Yet there is but one state-owned piece of property along the Escanaba river below Boney Falls, Jim continued. It is at Burnt Hill. There should be four or five more, so fishermen would have better access to the river waters.

A dry fly, incidentally, stays on top the water; a wet fly sinks into the water.

* * *

CONSERVATION—Rouman is all for conservation of our fish, and better sportsmanship among a certain type of fisherman.

In the Escanaba vicinity is some of the finest walleye fishing in the United States, he pointed out. Yet fishermen take their limit of 10 on the bay, come ashore, load them in the car; then go out again, several times. One man caught 60 in a day and peddled them around the community, others have caught as many, or more, sold them or given them away.

Trout or walleyes, it makes no difference, says Jim Rouman. Be a good sportsman and a good sport; fish within your needs and within the law.

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Roy Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Johnson, has left to resume his studies in Northwestern University dental school after a long period of illness.

Munising—Miss Lillian Knutson, student teacher at Northern State Teachers' College in Marquette, has accepted a position in the Muskegon public schools.

Escanaba—Gustav Victorsen, of Chicago, lumber camp cook who has been employed in this vicinity, was found dead last night in the Colonial hotel. His throat was slashed from ear to ear and investigating coroners reported apparent suicide.

Manistique—W. H. Pinneo and G. A. Pinneo, of St. Thomas, Ont., are visiting here with their mother, Mrs. G. F. Pinneo, who is seriously ill, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Shaw.

Gladstone—Fire yesterday destroyed the house and barn on the Victor Gagnon farm at West Gladstone with an estimated loss of $3000 to $4000.

Twenty Years Ago

Gladstone — Eldon Keil and Frank Trueblood left yesterday for Alma, Wis., to spend the Easter holidays with Mr. Keil's parents.

Manistique—The body of Mrs. E. N. Johnson has been found in the Indian river, and funeral services will be held this afternoon.

Escanaba—Miss Margaret Gallagher, who is employed with the U. S. Immigration bureau in Detroit, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Connell.

New York, (AP)—Sid Caesar is a young comedian who discovered that nonsense sounds make sound financial sense.

One of the first true comedians of the machine age, Sid has parlayed his talents from a $17 a week job as a theater doorman to star billing in the musical show "Make Mine Manhattan."

He can do "doubletalk" in any language and imitate any of the noises and machines that complicate modern life—from a subway turnstile to a hand grenade.

"Right now I'm working up a skit in which I play the life of a white-walled tire," he said.

In his present Broadway job—his first break in Big Time here—he is so busy he meets himself coming on and off the stage.

"I'm in nine scenes, have 22 changes in costume, play 23 characters and have to do 15 vocal sound effects," he said the other day at Lindy's, a place where people go to eat breakfast for lunch.

"On matinees I have 44 costume changes, and get all worn out just putting on clothes and taking them off."

Caesar is a tall, good looking guy from Yonkers who used to dream of becoming a great musician. He worked as a doorman here for several months before getting a berth with a jazz band. He blew a saxaphone—which may explain his insight into the production of odd noises.

During the war he served in the Coast Guard. His burlesque of airplane movies in the Coast Guard show "Stars and Spars" won him a Hollywood contract.

Sid liked the film colony money, but couldn't stand the inactivity between film assignments.

"What a life," he said. "They were paying me more in a week than I had been getting in a year with the Coast Guard. But what did I do? Play a game of tennis, then jump in the pool. Play a round of golf, then jump in the pool. Take a ride in my car—and back into the pool again. It was driving me nuts."

Between his stage duties now Sid manages to take daily gym workouts and also is taking voice and singing lessons.

The vocal lessons are designed to avoid the danger of losing his voice under the rasping chores he gives it. Among the fifteen things he imitates each day are hunting hounds, a bugle, a rifle bullet, a dial telephone, a horse, a police siren and the sound of axes chopping up a slot machine.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—A sudden spurt in recruiting after the first of the year almost upset the Pentagon's plan to high pressure Congress into a new draft act and universal training.

It wasn't publicized, but both Air Force and Navy figures shot far above their monthly quotas. Even recruiting for the Army ground forces hit a post-war high, just a little short of its assigned goal.

From less than 8,600 recruits in November and December, Air Force records bounced up to 14,573 recruits in January, sagged down to 11,270 during February, then picked up again during the first week of March. But even the February figure was higher than the monthly goals of 10,000 men.

The Navy rose from 14,309 in December to 19,834 in January, then back to 16,598 in February. Both were well above the monthly quota of 15,000.

On the other hand, the Army with a monthly quota of 20,000 only recruited 17,076 in January and 15,934 in February. But this was still a tremendous boost from 8,953 in November and 11,396 in December.

THE MARGARINE BATTLE

Congressman August Andresen of Red Wing, Minnesota, a power in the House agricultural committee, is threatening the southern Democrats with antitobacco, anticotton and anti peanut legislation unless they give up their fight for repeal of the margarine taxes.

Until last week, all the margarine bills had been bottled up in committee by the Republicans, led by Andresen. But Congressman Harold Cooley of North Carolina has now mustered 218 signatures on a discharge petition, and will force a bill before the House this week.

When Andresen heard about it, he hit the ceiling. He warned southern colleagues that he expects to take over as agriculture chairman next year, and swore he would make it tough on southern legislation. He is counting upon a Republican victory at the polls in November which might elevate the present agriculture chairman, Cliff Hope of Kansas, to the cabinet as secretary of agriculture.

Meanwhile, housewives are paying taxes on margarine as high as 10 to 12 cents per pound.

BEHIND THE TAX OVERRIDER

Story behind the congressional overrider of the president on the tax bill is that Truman originally intended to send his veto message to Congress on April 5—the last day he could act—instead of April 2.

He suddenly changed his plans, however, upon learning that House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn planned to leave for Texas during the weekend and would not be on the flood to lead the debate against the overrider.

So Truman called in Rayburn and Senate Democratic Leader Alben Barkley of Kentucky, told them of his plans to send up the veto message three days early so the leaders could rally Democrats in both Houses to make a series of speeches. They were to charge the Republican tax writers with trying to bankrupt the nation in order to win votes in the next election.

However, these White House plans fell through. Rayburn, who is still sore at Truman for splitting the Democratic party on the civil rights issue, didn't even bother to take part in the debate. In fact, there wasn't a single speech by a Democrat in the House supporting Truman's tax proposition.

In the Senate only three Democrats—Barkley of Kentucky, Hatch of New Mexico and Kilgore of West Virginia—took the trouble to speak against the G. O. P. motion to override the president.

AIR ARMADA

While the Pentagon boys emphasize the importance of the draft, the national defense research and development board has written a confidential report urging the need of an armada of cargo planes. In this age of blitz warfare, supply lines must be swift and flexible, which means America must build up a vast merchant marine of the air.

The report emphasizes the growing threat of Russian submarines, which could make sitting ducks of our ocean transports. Russia's underwater navy is already five times larger than the German U-boat fleet at its peak, the report states. What's more, Russia possesses the deadly German XXI which is "60 times more difficult to locate and kill" than standard World War II subs.

The present strategy of digging in and stockpiling material at forward bases is also rejected by the research board.

"Targets should determine the location of bases, not vice versa," the board argues. "The need for maintaining the base should cease when the target is destroyed. Advance bases should become as expendable as shell cartridges."

This means construction and supply should be cut to a minimum, and air transport must become the backbone of supply.

"Although World War II strategy was determined largely by the availability of shipping, in the next wear the availability of air lift will be the controlling factor," the report declares.

4,000 PLANES NEEDED

In closed-door testimony, military chiefs have warned that they must have 4,000 cargo planes with the carrying capacity of C-54's ready to take off at the drop of the first enemy bomb. Against this need, the certified airlines now have in the air less than 60 freight planes. An additional 125 planes are operated by veterans' air freight lines, still waiting for CAB certificates.

More than 400 small aviation companies have been set up by veterans since V-J day. Several dozen are engaged in air freight and are clamoring for certificates, so they can carry on regular operations. After nearly three years of applying, not a single veterans' air freight line has been awarded a CAB certificate. In fact, the first case hasn't even been heard yet.

Retired Auto Racer Races In The Parlor

BY RICHARD KLEINER

Detroit (NEA—Lou Fageol retired from big-time auto and speed boat racing, but he's still driving racing cars in his living room.

And while the driving is confined to a table-top race track which started out as a grown man's toy, it promises to whiz Fageol into big business.

The "Junior Midget Speedway" is no toy for tots, I discovered when Fageol let me try it. You need a practised hand on the throttle. And it costs close to $200.

Lou Fageol's father manufactures trucks and busses. Lou has always loved motors and high-powered vehicles. He and his power-boat, "So Long," have a Gold Cup among the trophies to their credit. He had a car in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race as recently as 1946.

When he quit active competition, he wanted to recreate racing thrills at home. With his brother, Robley, he designed the magnet-powered table-top speedway. His friends saw it, played it, and wanted to be parlor racing car drivers, too. Now Robley has organized a company to manufacture the machine in quantity. Many top-flight automobile executives in Detroit have bought them for their recreation rooms.

The speedway stands about waist high, and is about the size of a ping-pong table. Around an aluminum track run exact miniatures of big racing cars, complete to exhaust pipe. They're 2¾ inches long, with one-inch rubber tires.

One end of the table has two knobs, like radio control knobs. You turn them clockwise, and the cars move. The further you turn them, the faster they go. It's simple.

Table-top race drives (back to camera) controls speed of his car with rheostat knob as racers whiz around junior speedway.

Exoept for one thing. If you get the speed up too high, centrifugal force takes over, and the first thing you know, your car is off the track.

I had a red car, in the outside lane. An old pro named Ross had the black car on the rail. Somebody else named Lefty said one-two-three-go, and I twisted the knob with everything I had. My red car zoomed down the straightaway, and it had about two lengths on the black job.

At the north turn Death's Corners, we old drivers call it—my car calmly saild off the track.

"Too fast," Ross said.

Next time I took it slow. And Ross beat me, in a 10-lap race, by four laps.

Then I got the hang of it. You increase the speed until the rear wheels skid just a bid as the car roars around the turns. If you hold that pace, you're safe, A hair more on the throttle, and over it goes.

Here's how it works. The front axles of the cars are attached to a powerful magnet, which runs along underneath the track on rails. The mechanism is completely hidden from view.

The litle cars follow the magnets around at speeds of five to seven miles per hour. That's the equivalent of about 140 to 160 in relation to their size, which is pretty good speed for the parlor.

Q. What is the origin of the French "tricolor?"

A. It is the union of the Bourbon white and the blue and red of the city of Paris. Louis XVI adopted it, July '7, 1789, at the Hotel de Ville. Since then, except for the short period of the "restoration" when the Bourbon white was restored, it has been recognized as the national symbol.

Q. Why do we feel cold when we have wet feet or are wearing wet clothes?

A. Because the wet of our shoes or clothing quickly svaporates and, as it evaporates, absorbs heat from our bodies which makes us cold.

Wildcat Oil 'Fishing' Booms On Gulf Coast

Houston, Tex., (NEA)—The oil industry is going to sea.

Instead of "wildcatting" for oil, engineers and petroleum geologists today are "wildcat-fishing" in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico, and one of the biggest oil booms in history is in the making.

Alexander Deussen, veteran geologist and one of the best known Gulf Coast experts, believes there may be as many as 15 billion barrels of oil just off the coasts of Lousiana and Texas. Additional billions of barrels may be waiting to be tapped in the shallow tidelands off Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

This huge amount of oil is one-fifth of the world's present total supply, half as much as the fabled oil of Arabia, and two-thirds the oil the U. S. now has left.

Until recently, the high cost of drilling in open waters of the Gulf kept oil men's feet dry.

Now oil has become scarcer, and more valuable. Peacetime requirements are at an all-time high and the international situation makes new domestic sources all the more valuable. Almost any oil, anywhere, can be produced at a profit, in a few years if not now, oil men believe.

The Gulf tideland boom got started slowly, in the years before World War II. Now it is picking up speed.

Texas has leased two per cent—375,385 acres—of its submerged lands. Lousiana has leased nine per cent—1,676,487 acres, and Florida 16 per cent—8,000,000 acres.

Mississippi and Alabama haven't leased any of their lands yet. When they do, they probably will be able to command better than the dollar per acre average price obtained by the first three states to lease.

Four wells already have been drilled beneath the Gulf waters. One is 18 miles off shore.

In recent months there have been about 30 seismograph crews and three gravity meter crews working over the off-shore fields.

The gravity meter crews give the exploration areas a quick once-over. Their meter, working somethings like an upside-down butcher's scale, measures variations in gravity caused by changes in rock formations under the surface. Plotted on a map, these formation changes may indicate spots capable of holding oil deposits.

The seismograph crews follow and pin-point the findings of the gravity meters. The geologists set off dynamite charges and the seismographs plot the time it takes energy from the explosions to reach rock layers and bounce back. This graph-picture shows the twistings of rock layers below the surface and indicates possible oil traps in the rock formations.

This is essentially the same method oil explorers use on dry land. But there they can easily locate themselves on their maps because their positions are fixed. For under-water exploration they locate their positions at sea with radar fixes from the land, and drop their recording instruments through the water and ooze on the Gulf floor to take readings from the hard surface beneath the ooze.

Humble, Sun, Shell, Texas Standolind, Magnolia and other oil companies are in the search for new fields in the tidelands.

Still to be determined is the question of whether the Federal or state governments hold title to the underwater fields.

Last summer the Supreme Court, by a 6-2 decision, held that the tidelands off the Californit coast belong to the Federal Government. Since then the situation has been more or less confused, with the Gulf states, especially Texas, contending that the decision did not affect their rights to tidelands off their respective coasts.

Two bills now are going through the hopper in Congress to clarify ownership to the lands. One is a State Rights bill which will return title to the states. This is scheduled to go before the full Senate Judiciary committee this month with the 2-1 backing of the sub-committee which has been holding hearings on the measure. The House Judiciary sub-committee has approved a similar bill.

The other measure is an administration bill which would give the Federal government a clear title. It's been turned over to committees but no action has been taken.

Secretary of Interior Julius A. Krug told Washington reporters he would recommend that the President veto the States Rights bill.

Attorney General Tom Clark has announced plans to file suits against Louisiana and Texas claiming Federal ownership to the oil lands they have leased.

Meanwhile the dynamite charges boom along the Gulf coast as the explorations continue. Oil men want the oil. They'll let the courts or Congress decide who gets the royalities when the wells come in.

Soft pine supplied for many years the major lumber requirements of the United States.

KNICKERS RIVAL PETTICOAT—Proof that the exhibitionistic petticoat has a "new look" rival are these green and white polka-dotted silk knickers modeled by starlet Barbara ("You Were Meant for Me") Lawrence.

Studio stylist Bonnie Cashin, who designed them for wear with the head-wrapping scarf, shown, introduced the two accessories to add fillip to the quiet gray wool bolero suit which completes the ensemble.

ST. LOUIS PLANS BIG FAIR IN 1953

Exposition Is Seen As Improvements Spur

Washington, D. C.—"Meet me in St. Louis, meet me at the Fair." Millions of people from all over the world may be lilting St. Louisward in 1953 to the catchy theme tune which dates back to the city's Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904. Citizens of the Missouri metropolis are counting on it.

In 1923, St. Louis embarked on a civic program that called for clearing slum areas, improving water and sanitary systems, widening streets, building new parks, playgrounds, and boulevards. A decade later, plans for the ambitious Jefferson National Expansion Memorial on the Mississippi riverfront were added to the improvement program, notes the National Geographic Society.

Smoke-Free City

Many of the projects are complete. To prove their capacity for doing the impossible, St. Louisans since 1940 have transformed their busy industrial center by making and enforcing antismoke laws. Smog no longer blankets the shoes, furs, beer, and mules for which the city is renowned.

Since 1945, committees of citizens have been at work on the proposed Louisiana Purchase 150th anniversary exposition, viewing it as a spur to the long-term civic program. They recall that their 1904 Fair ended free of debt, gave the city its handsome art museum, and touched off an era of expansion and beautification.

Pierre Laclede had established the fur trading post of St. Louis in 1764. For Americans, however, St. Louis began as a town of 1,000 in 1803 when President Jefferson made the Louisiana Purchase from Napoleon.

In 1899 St. Louisans, still irked at having lost the Columbian Exposition to Chicago, organized for their centennial project. An avalanche of exhibit acceptances, representing virtually every American state and 62 foreign countries, forced postponement of the opening to 1904.

Originated Ice Cream Cone?

The St. Louis World's Fair, as it was generally known, spread over most of the two square miles of Forest Park, six miles west from the riverfront. Some 240 acres were under roof. Open 184 days from April 30 through November, it tallied 18,700,000 visitors—more than 100,000 a day. According to one legend, the ice cream cone was born at the Fair when a vendor started packing his hokey pokey in curled waffles.

For the 1953 exposition, Forest Park will again be the principal site. Largest of the many St. Louis recreational areas, it is one of America's biggest municipal parks. It holds the St. Louis Zoo with its cageless bear pits and a bird house called the largest in the world.

Sharing honors as the 1953 exposition site will be the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial area. Outmoded buildings covering 40 blocks of the city's old riverfront were razed in 1940 and 1941. Only such landmarks as the venerable cathedral of St. Louis, the courthouse where the Dred Scott case was twice tried, and the fur and hides warehouse of Manuel Lisa were preserved. The 83-acre area is now administered by the National Park Service.

Plans for landscaping and buildings for the riverfront memorial are being determined from results of an architectural contest sponsored by the city. The prize-winning proposal for a 590-foot stainless steel parabolic-arch "gateway to the West" recently attracted nation-wide interest.

Preparation of new types of electrical semi-conductors by bombardment of semi-conductor substances, particularly germanium, with nuclear particles, is a new development.

Library Adventure

By Arnold Mulder

Imagine a publisher rejecting a novel that later became almost the best seller of all time. Think how chagrined that publisher must have been when he learned that during the very first year of the book's history it sold in one year one million copies in London alone, and at least 150,000 copies in the United States. And as the years passed, decade after decade, the big sale continued so that the rival who accepted the book found in it a gold mine, with a liberal supply of diamonds mixed in with the gold. To the day of his death that publisher must have felt the impulse to cut off the hand that wrote the rejection slip. It was perhaps the master rejection slip of all time.

For the book involved in this publishing tragedy was none other than "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The manuscript was offered to a Boston firm. Mrs. Stowe herself had of course no suspicion that her book was the most valuable property in American publishing history; she seems to have expected that it might interest a respectable number of people, but there is no evidence that she expected even a modest best seller.

The Boston publisher recognized the fact all right that the story had a good chance for popularity. The rejection slip was somewhat reluctantly sent, and it was for a curious reason. Before the Civil War culture in the somewhat aristocratic South was at a higher level than in the more industrial North. True, there was a high state of culture in transcendental New England, but in much of the rest of the northern states the circulation of books was somewhat limited. The Boston publisher, therefore, looked to the South for a considerable part of its circulation outlet.

But obviously "Uncle Tom's Cabin" could hardly have much of a sale below the Mason and Dixon line. It would have been like trying to sell an American novel in Russia that glorified capitalism. So the Boston publisher feared that the sale of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" would be only half a sale.

There was, however, a more compelling reason still why he rejected the manuscript. In 1852, the year the book was published, feeling ran high on the question of abolitionism and slavery. The Boston publisher was afraid that not only would Mrs. Stowe's novel be a flop but that his southern customers would boycott all his other books if he became the publisher of this volume. He felt he could not afford to take such a risk and so he sent the story back to the author, with the usual polite note of rejection. He did not of course give his reasons to the author: publishers seldom do.

In the circumstances as they existed at that time he was displaying good publishing judgement. Books are by no means always accepted or rejected on merit or the lack of it; very often many considerations enter in have nothing to do with literature. A book, to a publisher, is an article of merchandise, and if he does not see a profit in it he is likely to reject it, no matter how good it may be.

The novel was finally brought out by a totally unknown young publisher, but he did not dare risk a bigger first edition than 5,000 copies. Before that, the story had been serialized in the "Nation Era," and its editor had paid Mrs. Stowe only $300 for it.

If the firm that rejected it had never sold another book in the whole of the South in a hundred years, it would still have been money ahead by publishing "Uncle Tom's Cabin." If publishers only had a crystal ball!

GEN. ROMULO HAS NEW POST

Appointed Chairman Of Geneva Conference

AP Newsfeatures

Gen. Carlos P. Romulo is the new chairman of the International Conference on Freedom of Information at Geneva. He is a Pulitzer prize winning news writer, editor, publisher, soldier and professor. From earliest boyhood, he has faced the perplexing problems of a people struggling toward independence.

As a child in the Philippines, he swore eternal enmity to Americans. American soldiers killed his friends, tortured his grandfather and discriminated against him because he had a dark skin. But his hatred turned to admiration as he watched the development of American policy in the islands. That admiration was confirmed when a scholarship took him to Columbia University.

He returned to Manila as a professor. Later he became a newspaper editor and then publisher of a group of Philipino papers. As a reserve major in the Fillipino forces, he became a member of Gen. MacArthur's staff in charge of public relations when the Japanese attacked. He is credited with being the last man evacuated from Bataan. And he was on the last plane evacuating personnel from the Philippines.

Continuing with MacArthur on the long road back, he rose to become a general. Then he was resident commissioner for the islands in the United States. And when independence came he was made permanent delegate to the United Nations for the Philippines.

His Pulitzer prize was awarded in 1941 for articles written on a tour of the Far East. He is also the author of several books and plays.

Gen. Romulo spoke in Escanaba several years ago under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

Perfect Shipping To Be Discussed By C&NW Employes

Representatives of the Chicago and North Western Railway will launch a series of employe meetings at rail shipping points in eight states starting this week in a large scale educational campaign on the prevention of damaged and lost freight.

This was announced today by R. L. Williams, president of the railway system, who said that men skilled in freight handling procedures will tour the railway's system lines during "Perfect Shipping Month" in cooperation with the National Shippers' Advisory Boards.

Motion pictures, illustrated talks, and printed material will be used in the meetings which are designed to bring better understanding of methods of freight handling to employes working on each phase of handling shipments from the time they are received by the railroad until delivery.

North Western officials who will participate in the meetings are T. E. Adamson, freight claim agent; A. M. Rieck, supervisor of loss and damage; and H. A. Wetter, freight service inspector.

Veteran Postal Carrier Claims Walking Record

BY HORACE CORT
AP Newsfeatures

Atlanta, Ga.,—Wylie T. Mann believes he has walked more than any person in the United States.

For 42 years a postman, he has been on Route 104 here for all but two of them.

On that Route he has worn out 100 pairs of shoes, and estimates he has walked over 159,000 miles—more than 5 times around the earth. Besides carrying mail, he also takes long walks on his days off. Mann will be 67 years old his next birthday. He never had foot trouble.

His clerk in charge, Walter A. Curry, says "Ol' Pop" gets out and back before the young fellows do, and climbs steps as fast as any young mail carrier in the city.

"My motto is—make friends with the dogs, and then the people—because people won't bite you," Mann says. "It works out pretty well. One dog followed me from house to house for eight years. Outside of occasional pants-leg tuggings, I have only had one dog try to bite me, and that was when I started to hand a letter to a blind lady who owned the dog."

WYLIE T. MANN

Although Mann isn't scheduled to retire until 1951, the Atlantic postal division has had a sample of what Route 104 residents will have to say. About a year ago, the Department lopped off a couple of blocks of his route. The people raised such a howl they had to put the blocks back on his route.

Mann makes these observations:

"People and dogs aren't as cantankerous as others say they are."

"If you don't like to walk—don't be a postman."

"If you are a postman—don't wear sissy, lowtop shoes."

"In times of depression, a postman is a millionaire, with his steady income. Right now the postman's pay of $3,100 per year isn't so good."

And what will he do when he retires?

"Oh, I don't know. I guess I'll get some sort of job—a walking job," he says.

Seney

Seney, Mich.—Mrs. Fred Hollingshead has returned from St. Luke's hospital at Marquette and is convalescing at her home here.

Robert McDowell left Thursday for Minneapolis where he will enter a telegrapher's school for training.

A son was born Saturday Mar. 27 to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson at the Newberry clinic. Mrs. Johnson is the former Lavina Wiertella.

Among those who attended the junior play at Newberry Thursday evening were Mr. and Mrs. W. Neime, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. J. Riordan, Mark Ketola, Peggy Riordan, Mary Ann Pelkie, Pat Sadler, Garnet Boggs, Sue Ketola and Jim Boggs.

The crabbage club met Friday evening. Prizes were won by Robert McDowell, Thelma Neime, Donald McDonald and Mrs. McDowell. Lunch was served.

Former Marquette Rector, Rev. Burt, Is Taken By Death

Emmorton, Md. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Bates Gilbert Burt, 70, acting rector of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal church here, died after a heart attack in the rectory Monday.

Dr. Bates was born in Wheeling, W. Va., and studied at the Virginia Theological Seminary.

He was ordained in 1904 by the Rt. Rev. G. M. Williams, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Michigan, and came to Harford county from Michigan after his retirement last year.

In 1905 Dr. Bates was married to the late Emily May Bailey of Sault Ste. Marie. After a year of missionary work in the Upper Peninsula, he became rector of St. Paul's church at Marquette. He remained there for 18 years, interrupted only by service as a chaplain in World War I.

Dr. Bates later went to Pontiac as rector of All Saints Episcopal church, holding that position until his retirement in 1946.

His son, the Rev. John H. Burt, is student chaplain at the University of Michigan.

Funeral services will beld here Thursday. The body will be taken to Ann Arbor, Mich., for burial.

More than 6 million pounds of salmon are caught in California each year.

Navigation Opened At Marquette Docks

Marquette, Mich. (AP) — Encountering little ice enroute, the Cleveland-Cliffs carrier Grand Island repeated its 1947 "opening performance" by reaching Marquette at 7:30 Tuesday morning to take on an 8,000 ton iron ore cargo for Cleveland.

Captain Lawrence Frazer, of Ashtabula, Ohio, was greeted by a delegation of Marquette Junior Chamber of Commerce members who presented him with a ship's clock. Captain E. W. Scott, Milwaukee, Wis., who brought the Grand Island into Marquette on April 15 last year, has been given command of another vessel.

In contrast to last year's struggle with mountainous floes in Whitefish Bay, Captain Frazer said the 14-hour trip from Sault Ste. Marie was uneventful and that his steamer "took things slow" only in the vicinity of Grand Island, off Munising, because of uncertain ice conditions.

Approximately a quarter-million workers are employed in making yarns and fabrics in the United States.

George Pegg is visiting relatives in Saginaw this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carey are visiting relatives in Detroit.

Mrs. Arthur Tullock left Thursday for Grand Rapids to attenl the Federated Women's Club convention now being held there. Mrs. Tullock is the Club's State Conservation Chairman.

Mrs. James Buckland was hostess to the Thursday evening Bridge club this past week. Mrs. Charles Bleckiner won first prize, and Mrs. L. Duval won second.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Petitpren are visiting relatives in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson left Monday for Chicago for a week's visit with their children.

W. C. Meeting

Members of the Home Extension Group presented a program of Achievement Work for members of the Woman's Club on Thursday of this week. Mrs. John Morrissey, chairman of the program, assisted by Mrs. M. Touzel, sr., and Mrs. Isadore Roberts discussed and demonstrated the various projects carried out by the Extension group this past year. Mrs. Touzel discussed the glove making project, and Mrs. Roberts told about the groups' work in Fine Laundering, Aids to Ironing, Healthful Meals. Completed work was on display. Following the program, election of officers was held from names submitted by the nominating committee. The following oficers were elected:

President—Mrs. Rex Block.

First Vice President—Mrs. T. Senecal.

Second Vice President—Mrs. Herman Petitpren.

Recording Secretary — Mrs. Charles Chilson.

Treasurer—Mrs. Ernest Hill.

Financial Secretary—Mrs. John Morrissey.

VETS SUPPORT IKE, RAP MAC

Eisenhower Gets Much Good Publicity

By ROBERT C. RUARK

New York—It is a sign of our increased attention to the national and international picture that I have heard, this spring, not one conjecture about baseball. Not one comment on the new Leo Durocher; not one conjecture on the Yankees; not one worried speculation on the state of Charlie Keller's freshly carpentered spine.

The luncheon, cocktail and dinner talk is of MacArthur and Eisenhower, of the April elections in Italy, of the conventions in Philadelphia and of Mr. Thomas Dewey's chances. I don't believe I've heard anybody mention the Kinsey report in a week or more.

Mister Dwight David Eisenhower's coyness seems to be a greater conversational football than the late royal nuptials in England. Gen. MacArthur's chance at the big job is receiving a bigger workout than Joe McCarthy's shot at a pennant. They have a great, juicy murder running currently in New York, and nobody I've met has mentioned it. What they ask, worriedly, is do you think Ike will really run?

Ike Gets Spotlight

I have, to date, encountered not a single veteran who thinks Gen. MacArthur has a small hope to cop a nomination. It is an interesting thing, the difference of appreciation of the two men. Few folks ever heard of Ike Eisenhower until he got the job as overall commander in 1941, and MacArthur has been pointedly around since the century started. Yet Ike cops the nod all the way.

Gen. MacArthur's job in the Pacific was, by all accounts, a smart and economic operation, in terms of manpower, and his postwar occupation of Japan is generally cited as a masterpiece of reconstruction. But the old serviceman's antipathy to the general persists. I don't believe he could poll a 10 per cent vote among the families of the ex-GI.

Mac Is Pompous

There is no full explanation of the anti-MacArthur legend among servicemen in the last war. Some of it was bad press relations: His press chief, LeGrand Diller, was largely unloved by correspondents, and the rotund communiques from Mac's headquarters were irritating, to put it mildly. It is no secret that Gen. MacArthus is somewhat pomous, certainly dramatic, and a stickler for protocol. He always was a theatrical character, and apt to strike the ordinary doughfoot or swabbie as the personification of all hated brass.

There must have been a hundred anti-MacArthur, or kidding-MacArthur, ditties in the last war. They were mostly profane, and heavily centered around the fact that the general had come down with a hard case of omnipotence. There were a thousand anti-MacArthur jokes, fables and anecdotes—not one of which, probably, was true.

They hung the title of Dugout Doug on MacArthur. It was without justification, so far as his personal bravery was concerned. It just seemed that MacArthur the man was wired for unpopularity, and that unpopularity carried over from soldier to civilian. I guess there were a couple of hundred generals and admirals who suffered more acutely from the things they credited MacArthur with, but MacArthur took the rap.

Publicity Barrage Starts

This attitude has persisted, especially since the general's presidential campaign was espoused by the Hearst papers. The old, worn, rassle-promotion technique of plugging a product has revived all the ancient MacArthur stories and songs, and has succeeded in making a bad joke of the general once more. A steady succession of seedy cinema has-beens have plugged MacArthur. The completely corny, repetitious quotes from hand-picked nonentities sound less like an indorsement of a presidential candidate than a listing of the showoffs who've switched to Calvert's.

As MacArthur has always been unfortunately on the wrong end of the publicity stick, Eisenhower has never been shaken off the right end. Even Ike's speech of renunciation, when he turned down a crack at the presidency, built him extra character in the streets. Ike merely said he didn't think generals had any business running for political office, and as the people applauded, MacArthur intimated he would love the job. There is said to have been personal malice in that one, and it didn't boost MacArthur's stock any, with his old hirelings.

Nobody knows much about Ike: About what he stands for, what he thinks, or what he could do. But they—and especially the alumni of World War II—buy him almost unequivocally, as they reject Gen. MacArthur.

Sculptor Will Carve Mountain For Memorial

BY DAN VALENTINE

Rapid City, S. D., (NEA)—Korczak Ziolkowski came out of the Army with an idea that will keep him busy for the next 30 years and leave his imprint on the Black Hills for a lot longer.

Ziolkowski, a husky fellow who was a nationally-known sculptor even before he went overseas with the artillery, has arrived in the Black Hills of South Dakota to carve a statue of Indian Chief Crazy Horse from the solid rock of a Black Hills mountain.

He has moved his wife and young daughter from a 20-room home in West Hartford, Conn., to a two-room shack below the mountain, and he plans to start carving by spring.

Chief Standing Bear of the old Sioux Nation started Ziolkowski on the project when he asked him to create a memorial to the famous Crazy Horse.

Crazy Horse, one of the last of the fighting Red Men, was killed in 1890 by Federal Indian agents after resisting arrest for inciting his followers into taking the war path. Since then Crazy Horse has become a Sioux legend.

After talking with Standing Bear, Ziolkowski became fighting mad himself.

"The Indians received a dirty deal from the White Men," he says. "The more I study their history, their traditions and their legends, the more I am convinced that we, the White Men, do something to honor their name."

So he bought a 300-acre ranch at the base of Thunderhead mountain, about 10 miles from famous Mount Rushmore. Then he obtained two mining claims on Thunderhead mountain and received government permission to carve the memorial.

He plans to help finance the project by mining operations on the mountain. He also will build an old-style western town on the ranch, where he will sell souvenirs and operate a hotel. It will cost spectators one dollar to view the carving operations.

"I have dedicated my life to this work," he explains, "and I will pay for it myself. I'm sure the government will be glad to finance a monument to the Indians 50 years from now—when they are all gone—but I can't wait for the government."

Rep. Francis Case, South Dakota's fighting Congressman, calls the project "a memorial to an able leader of a lost cause."

Ziolkowski worked with Gutzon Borglum on Mount Rushmore in 1939 so mountain carving is nothing new to the Boston-born sculptor.

However, he has run into strong opposition in the Black Hills. Many of the local papers editorally have said that "one Mount Rushmore is enough." Other people claim they don't want their "God-made Black Hills turned into a sculptor's gallery."

But I'm going through with this monument of Crazy Horse if it takes the rest of my life—and it probably will," Ziolkowski says.

HARNESSING RED WINDS

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union is out to harness the winds for mechanization of agriculture. In the Ukraine wind mills and generators are being put on farms, press reports say. Wind generation of electricity can be of particular importance in plains areas of Russia on many of which winds are almost incessant.

A species of bird, the megapodes, lays its eggs in mounds of decaying vegetable matter or in sand near hot springs and leaves them to be hatched by nature.

Seattle Friends Honor Thorman Jacobsens, Former Escanabans

Of interest in Escanaba, former home of Mr. and Mrs. Thorman Jacobsen, of Seattle, Wash., is a story written by Herb Robinson of the staff of the Seattle Daily Times, telling of an anniversary party held recently in honor of the couple.

The story, accompained by a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobsen in their drug store, follows:

"Most everybody on Queen Anne Hill knows Jake.

"Even those who've never been in Jake's place, the drug store at Fourth Avenue North and Boston Street, at least have heard of the store and of Thorman Jacobsen's reputation as a good Samaritan and a student of human nature.

"For 25 years now, the place has been a first-aid center, a world-affairs forum, a transmission point for neighborhood gossip and a hideout for hookey - playing youngsters—a hideout until Jake sends 'em back to school.

They Were All There

"When word leaked out that Jake was due to celebrate the anniversary of the opening of the store, friends, neighbors and just plain customers got together and planned a surprise party, a testimonial dinner last night at the New Washington Hotel.

"More than 350 persons were there to pay tribute to a man who they feel has rendered a real service to his community. A silver tea set, a rowboat, and a 35-millimeter camera were additional surprises.

"Many folks with aches and pains would rather see Jake than go to a doctor. But Jake grins his modest grin, scratches his jaw and insists he's not a medico, but a druggist.

Let Jake Fix It

"Despite this, the aphorism "Let Jake Fix It" has become a community by word. Tearful youngsters who run home to their mothers with skinned knees and elbows are told to let Jake fix it. Moppets who suffer baseball fingers on one of the neighboring sandlot fields are counseled by teammates to let Jake fix it.

"And Jake, with his gentle hands and friendly eyes fixes it without charge.

"The store itself is a community institution and Queen Anne folk will tell you it's as much a landmark as the high school, the counterbalance or the water towers.

"Jake's place has had its exciting moments, too. The store has been held up six times, once by a gang that killed a policeman three days later.

"His friends insist Jake once saved a man's life. The man, a janitor at John Hay School across the street, fell through a glass skylight and was injured critically. Jake administered first aid until the ambulance arrived.

"Jake started in the drug business at the age of 15 in his home town, Escanaba, Mich. Working as an errand boy, he saved enough money to start pharmacy school at Marquette University. He was graduated in 1914, after waiting table, tending furnaces and doing other jobs to pay his way.

Store Opened In 1923

"After a brief stint in the Army in 1917, he returned to marry his home-town sweetheart and came to Seattle two years later. He opened his Queen Anne store April 1, 1923, with only one employe, a young girl behind the soda fountain. Mrs. Jacobsen stayed at home until their daughters had grown up. Now she helps Jake tend the store.

"Jake says some of the boys who used to hang around the store in the old days come back from all over the United States to shake hands and say hello."

Teen's Togs Can Round Out Figure

BY ALICIA HART

A "slim jim" teen-ager should stop envying the lissome lines of curvier girls and start choosing clothes that will round out her angular figure. She'll find a plentiful choice in "new look" fashions.

Best choices for a "slim jim" are clothes that nip in to accent her tiny waistline and puff out above and below it at bosom and hips. She can wear full ballerina-styled skirts or skirts with pleats or gores that swing out from a rib-hugging waistband. Ideal for her are many of fashion's prefabricated curves: hipline drapery, bustle bows, peplums, tiers, bowtied sashes.

A sketchy bosom gains curves from bodices strategically shirred or darted to release fabric fullness over the bustline. High necklines that sport chin-chucking frills, ruffs or stand-up collars are dainty foils for a long slender neck.

Togs a "slim jim" should rule out of her wardrobe because they accentuate her boyish figure are straight skirts, severely tailored suits, long-fitted coats, tight sweaters, knitted suits. Also taboo are dresses made of clinging fabrics such a jersey.

Soft Necklines Flatter Throat

The woman whose throat tells tales of age can put a stop to this gossip by making a wiser choice of necklines.

Best choices are those necklines which climb up a bit, are softening, have a sigh-inspiring look of daintiness. A ruffled upstanding collar, for example, of white lace or starchy fabric encircled by a pearl necklace or a black velvet ribbon has incalculable flattery to offer. As flattering is a delicately colored chiffon scarf, draped softly around the neckline of a dress. Many women give dash to a neckerchief-scarf of this type by spiralling it around the gold-chain necklace or the choker of pearls which they wear also for neckline flattery.

The kind of necklines which should be rejected are the kind which reveal too much throat or the kind which are too starkly severe in design.

Neckline styles which should also be shunned are new fashion revivals of the fichu and the shawl. Despite their high-style look, these styles seem to suggest the mature lady.

92 YEARS OLD — Mrs. Mary Greenizen, well known resident of Escanaba, who celebrated her 92nd birthday anniversary, April 3, was honored at a birthday party held at the John LaComb home, 109 North 19th street, where she now resides.

Friends who attended included Mrs. John LaComb, Mrs. Anna Gunter, Mrs. Richard Woods, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. John Pearson, Mrs. Myrtle Ranguette, Mrs. George Goodnough and Rev. and Mrs. Otto H. Steen. A large birthday cake with lighted candles and cut flowers centered the table. Mrs. Greenizen received many gifts and birthday cards.

Mrs. Greenizen was born in Vescal, Broom county, New York, April 3, 1856, and received her early education there. Following her graduation from the Normal school at Portland, N. Y., she taught for over 30 years in the public schools in New York state and in Iowa.

She came to Escanaba in 1915 with her daughter, Mrs. Charles R. Larson, of Wells, and since Mrs. Larson's death, has lived at the LaComb home. She has one daughter living, Mrs. Ione Lauder, who recently returned to Shellbrook, Sask., Canada, after a visit with her mother.

In spite of her advanced age, Mrs. Greenizen is active and keenly interested in affairs about her. She can read without glasses and spends much of her time tatting, one of the handiwork hobbies she has enjoyed for many years.

Silver Wedding Party Given for E. R. Gustafsons

Over 300 guests honored Mr. and Mrs. E. Reynold Gustafson, of 1711 First avenue south, at their silver wedding observance in North Star hall Saturday night. Among guests present were their daughters, Miss Marilyn Gustafson, a student nurse in Augustana hospital in Chicago, and Mrs. Donald Koers and son Randy of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustafson, native Escanabans, were united in marriage here at the Bethany Lutheran parsonage March 28, 1923. They have three children, Warren, Laverne, now Mrs. Koers, and Marilyn. Dr. C. A. Lund officiated at their marriage service and the couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pearson, who also were guests at the silver wedding observance.

The social highlight at North Star hall was arranged by a committee comprised of Mrs. Atley Peterson, Mrs. Carl Rehnquist, Mrs. Walter Pearson, Mrs. Joseph Belanger, Mrs. Rudolph Larson, Mrs. John Back, Miss Agnes Nelson and Mrs. George Haberley. A varied program for the occasion was planned by Mrs. James Olson.

Two large baskets of American Beauty roses flanked the guest table, set with a large, tiered wedding cake and cut flowers. Pink and white formed the color keynotes of the beautifully decorated hall.

Arthur Moberg was toastmaster for the observance, highlighted by a violin performance of a wedding march, by Miss Ruth Glad, accompanied by Mrs. Francis Costley, and presentation of a large basket of flowers by little Karen Olson. Karen, four - year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Olson, wore a chartreuse net formal and a wreath of roses.

Featured on the program were two songs by C. Arthur Anderson, "O Promise Me" and "Until". Miss Florence Olson accompanied Mr. Anderson. During the program Rev. Gustav Lund spoke briefly, Mrs. Anna Darrow gave a recitation and Mrs. Rudolph Larson gave a short talk.

Miss Ruth Glad sang "Smiling Through" and "I'll Walk with You", and Mrs. Sjoberg sang two numbers, "Gamala Syrenen" in Swedish, and "Silver Threads Among the Gold.' Mrs. Jimmy Olson sang a song she wrote especially for the silver anniversary of the Gustafsons.

Following the luncheon a social hour was held with music by Mr. and Mrs. George LaChapelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustafson received many gifts, flowers and telegrams as mementoes of the day.

Slim Figure Is First Concern Of Beauty Show

By SID MIRKIN

New York (AP)—The shape of things to come definitely is slimmer.

The 26th International Beauty Show at Grand Central Palace revealed today that miracles of modern science have been harnessed for the slenderizing and beautification of Mr. and Mrs. America.

On hand are such achievements of postwar civilization as radar and television waves, the gyroducing salon, the postural alignment couch, the massage-o-mat and assorted other wonders.

The accent is on time and comfort. Most of the gadgets are aimed at speeding up milady's beauty treatment of combining several steps in reducing and beautifying.

The radar wave, which doesn't use radar waves, is powered by electronics and can heat a clip to be used in setting a permanent wave in only three seconds.

The gyroducing salon, showing chairs, tables and hobby horses designed to oscillate various parts of the anatomy, demonstrated another gimmick with which it is attempting to invade the barber shop.

The gyro-lator barber chair can —when a coin is dropped in a box —provide oscillation of the feet and/ legs while the customer is being shaved or having his hair trimmed.

Alignment Couch

One of the most fascinating exhibits, however, was the postural alignment couch.

A pretty blonde demonstrator settled a man on a flat table. His legs were strapped to the table and his shoulders held securely by metal clamps. Then his hands were extended back over his head to a metal bar which was moved away from the table mechanically

The demonstrator denied that the medieval torture rack inspired the couch. The torture rack didn't oscillate. But the couch does.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Harwood, of Madison, Wis., are the parents of a daughter, born April 3, in Madison General hospital. The baby, the first child in the family, has been named Christine Ann. Mrs. Harwood is the former Helen Santimore of this city, and Mr. Harwood is a son of Mrs. William Harwood, of 425 South 9th street.

WASHING GREENS

Warm water will remove grit more quickly than cold when washing spinach and other greens. After you remove the roots, heavy stems and undesirable leaves, the greens should be washed in a number of waters. Washing should continue until no grit is present and the leaves should be lifted from one water to another so that sand or grit can settle at the bottom of the pans and be thrown away.

Fault-Finding Is Unpleasant Habit

One habit which an older woman should get rid of at any cost is that of finding fault with others.

The danger of fault-finding, besides being an unpleasant personality trait, is that this habit invites aging lines to a face. The set line the mouth takes when a woman indulges in unfriendly criticism is aging. The coldly critical expression which creeps into a woman's eyes when she finds fault with her family or friends has so often the effect of hardening her face that this look should be avoided at any cost of effort.

On the other hand, a woman whose experience has taught her to be tolerant of the minor quirks of human nature is apt to be rewarded by her display of sympathy. The smile in her eyes and on her lips is invariably warming and beautifying to her face Moreover, her personality is apt to be made warmer and richer by her expressions of generosity and tolerance.

CONCERT HERE ON THURSDAY

Violin-Piano Program Is Lyceum Number

A violin and piano concert with informal commentary will be presented by Michel Gibson and Irving Schwerke at Gladstone high school auditorium Thursday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock as the fourth number of the local Lyceum course. Adults are invited.

Internationally known as musicians, critics, authors and lecturers and as "Ambassadors of American Music" this duo brings a sparkling program to Gladstone.

Of their performance the Green Bay Press Gazette printed:

"An assembly program both educational and enjoyable was given to the students of Shawano High school, by Michel Gibson, violinist, and Irving Schwerke, pianist.

"These musicians, who have toured extensively in Europe and in America, are recognized as unique in their field, being the only performers now on the concert stage who have the reputation of being able to hold high school audiences under the spell of the highest grades of music, without once lowering the level of selection or standards of performance."

The program also pleased school men who wrote:

Coleman (Wis.) High School, Nov. 12, 1947:

Had the musicians been willing the student body and the faculty would have remained to hear them for hours.

Walter E. Ott, Principal.

An exceptional concert!

Ch. Emerson, Music Director.

Oconto (Wis.) High School: Nov. 14, 1947. (2nd appearance)

Sorry we had to limit Gibson & Schwerke to only three encores! The students would have listened the rest of the day!

POCAHONTAS TALE DOUBTED

Saving Of John Smith Fiction, Claim

Ann Arbor— Did Pocahontas really save the life of John Smith, or did the Captain embellish the story of his capture by Indians when he published it some 20 years later?

The legend lives on, but many competent historians agree that Smith probably took the story from an adventure attributed to an earlier Spanish explorer, Dr. Randolph G. Adams, director of the Clements Library of American History at the University of Michigan, points out.

"In the year 1607 Captain John Smith was captured by Indians in Virginia," Dr. Adams relates. "He told the story in a long letter published in booklet form in London a year later. About all that happened was that he was taken before an Indian chief, treated kindly, and sent back to Jamestown."

Later, when Captain Smith returned to England, he found that Richard Hakluyt had published a book on Spanish adventures in America, "Virginia Richly Valued," in which he told a yarn of how one Juan Ortiz was captured by Indians. The Indians were about to burn Ortiz at the stake, when the chief's daughter intervened and his life was spared.

In 1624 Captain Smith published "The Generall Historie of Virginia"—copies of early editions of this book and of Smith's letter are contained in the Clements Library—in which he tells a different story of his capture. This time, Dr. Adams points out, the story was the familiar one in which Pocahontas rushed to Smith's defense at the critical moment.

"Whether or not Captain Smith purloined the Ortiz story is a question, although many competent historians who know something about human nature agree that he probably did," Dr. Adams points out.

Many residents of the Kentucky mountains believe that water taken from an old oak stump will wash off freckles.

GIVE CONCERT — Michael Gibson, violinist, and Irving Schwerke, pianist, will present a program Thursday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock at the high school auditorium as the fourth number of the Lyceum course. The public is invited.

University Seed-Doctors Solving Sunflower Secret

BY C. W. WHITE

Urbana, Ill., (NEA)—University seed-doctors and cooperating farmers believe they are so close to solving the "sunflower secret" that before long you may be eating your first sunflower meal cake, and thousands of American farmers may have a new crop to harvest.

Only a few development problems remain to be ironed out befor the production of sunflowers for commercial purposes becomes a "project of national magnitude," according to Ezra Levin, Illinois seed professor who traveled to Canada in order to find a harvestable sunflower variety.

Although sunflower seeds have been recognized as valuable winter feed for cattle and poultry, up to now the commercial use of the crop has never been on a large scale.

Professors R. O. Weibel and A. L. Lang of the University of Illinois are leaders in the field experiments in which nine Piatt Country farmers asisted, growing approximately 100 acres of sunflowers last year.

They did the farm-and-laboratory job, but it took Mrs. Royene F. Owen, Home economics instructor at Urbana, to demonstrate that sunflower meal, once produced, could be made into palatable food for humans. It had already been proved on livestock.

"Although our work has been of a preliminary nature, we did find that dark cakes—such as chocolate and spice cakes, and pancakes containing sunflower seed flour—were very promising," Mrs. Owen says. "It might also be used in bread in small amounts."

She has developed a recipe for sunflower spice cake, using 20 per cent of the flour, which is described as "rich and full-flavored." Cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg are spice ingredients.

B vitamins are the prime attraction in sunflower seed.

"It is especially high in thiamin, niacin and riboflavin, and if compared to pork (one of the best food sources of B vitamins), sunflower seed meal contains approximately half as much thiamin, four times as much niacin, and twice as much riboflavin," Mrs. Owen reports.

From the farmer's standpoint, the chief problem seems to be harvesting the crop. As much as 1000 to 1800 pounds have been grown to the acre in central Illinois. But the traditional tall sunflower plants, with heavy stalks, were too hard to harvest.

The college seed-doctors turned to experiments with dwarf varieties, and now they think they have one. It's the "Advance," produced in Canada, and while not generally available here as yet, they feel that once this seed can be obtained for general U. S. development, the battle will be won.

Methods of planting and cultivating sunflowers are similar to those for corn. It can be done with the machinery used for corn.

"We can definitely promise that dwarfed sunflowers harvested by modern machinery, will produce yields of sunflower meal and oil that will be equal on an economic basis to soybean yields in terms of value of meal and oil per acre," seed producer Levin declares.

These tall sunflowers were being used for cattle feed in California back in 1933. New dwarf variety may put sunflower harvest on a big commercial basis.

Carmel M. Caron Is Bride Saturday Of Francis N. Cannon

All Saints Catholic church was the scene of a beautiful wedding on Saturday morning April 3, when Miss Carmel Marie Caron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Caron, 702 Dakota avenue, and Francis Neil Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cannon, 1312 Minnesota avenue, spoke their nuptial vows at a 10 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Fr. Matt LaViolette.

Easter lilies intermingled with green ferns banked the main and side altars of the church and the music of the mass was sung by All Saints junior choir with Miss Melanie DeHooghe. accompanist. The traditional processional and recessional wedding marches were played.

White satin bows centered with daffodils, snapdragons and carnations marked the pews where the invited guests and relatives were seated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of eggshell brocaded satin, fashioned with a tight fitting bodice, illusion neckline and wide lace yoke. The fitted sleeves came to points over the wrist, and the full skirt with a bustle back, fell into a long graceful train. Her fingertip veil was attached to a lace brimmed hat. Calla lilies formed her bridal bouquet.

The bridesmaid, Miss Elaine Norton, chose an American beauty red moire taffeta gown, styled with the high neckline and peg topped skirt, matching gauntlet styled gloves and a sidespray of white snapdragons and carnations in her hair.

The little flower girl, Jackie Heslip, wore a gown identical to that of the bride, with a lace bandeau in her hair and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Warren Duane White of Escanaba, the ringbearer. wore a white suit and carried the rings on a satin pillow.

Jack Burroughs served as the best man, and the ushers were Arthur LeGault, Tony Marmilick, John Lagina and James Paine.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Caron chose a seafoam teal suit with gray accessories, complimented by a shoulder corsage of white roses.

The groom's mother was attired in an aqua street length dress with navy blue accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate members of both families was held in the Marine dining room, of the House of Ludington, following the ceremony. Covers were laid for fifty guests.

A reception was held from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Cut flowers in pastel hues decorated the rooms, and the bride's table was laid with a white Mederia tablecloth, centered with the wedding cake which was circled with a wreath of ferns and daffodils. Lighted tapers flanked the cake on either side. A bouquet of daffodils topped the cake. Over two hundred guests attended the reception. Mrs. Clifford Kinnie and Mrs. Douglas Mathison served the guests.

In the evening a supper was held for all relatives attending.

The newlyweds have left on a trip to Wisconsin. Michigan and Canada, and upon their return will make their home in Gladstone..

The bride is a graduate of Gladstone high school. class of 1945 and attended the Villa Scholastica at Duluth, and finished at Miss Brown's school of business in Milwaukee. She has been employed there. The groom graduated from Gladstone high school in 1944 and served in the U. S. Navy for two years. He is a graduate of Milwaukee Accredited school.

Out-of-town guests were: Miss Virginia Schultz. St. Scholastica College, Duluth; Miss Barbara Drayna, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis; Miss Jean Bellefeuil, Marquette University, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dupuis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wabakken, Racine, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Van Natta, Watseka, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barry, Marquette, Mich., Mrs. Richard Wuerl Milwaukee and George Schearer, Milwaukee.

PICK WINNERS IN FORENSICS

Students Will Compete In Escanaba Meet

Students who will represent Gladstone high school in the district forensic contest at Escanaba high on Thursday, April 15, were selected in local contests held here yesterday.

Inasmuch as each school is allowed to enter two students in each division or branch of speech work no designation as to first and second place was made in the judging.

Betty Ohman who presented "United We Stand" and Dolly Olson who used "Assignment for America" were the winners in oratorical declamation.

In dramatic declamation Pat Bolger who gave "The Seeing Eye" and Marie Sundblad, who presented "Illusion" were chosen.

"Now Is the Hour" by Marilyn Bredahl and "Intolerance" by Mary Ann Chroge were selected as the best original orations.

Helen Canuelle and Margaret Jean Hult are the extempore speakers.

Interest in forensics this year was high and at one time about 25 students had indicated they would enter one of the various contests. This list was reduced somewhat as the local contest neared.

In oratorical declamation Jackie Billings presented "Victory Without Hate" while Gretchen Hult gave "An Unknown Romance."

Making dramatic declamation were Muriel Aasve who used "Spanish Gypsy"; Pat Heslip with "The Greatest Gift," Charlee Du-Roy presenting "Children of God," Pat Miller with "Retribution" and Ann Sword who used "Mary Lincoln."

James Laraby and Jeannine Dahn also presented original orations.

Judging the contests were Mrs. Carl B. Olson, Miss Breitenbach and James Berkely.

Clifford Goodman Is Rotary Speaker

An idea of how the Whiting Corporation of Harvey, Ind., operates was given the Gladstone Rotary club Monday noon by Clifford Goodman, formerly of Gladstone, here on a visit over the weekend.

The firm has about 1450 employes and so excellent has been the employer-employee relationship that employes have consistently voted against unionizing, the speaker declared. A profit-sharing plan for the employes is also used by the firm.

Bertil Modine of Upsala, Sweden, at present visiting in Escanaba, was a guest at the meeting.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the assistance and sympathy rendered during the long illness and subsequent death of our beloved mother and grandmother, Mrs. Tom Jachor. Particularly are we grateful to the Peter McIntyres, Mrs. William Bebeau, Mrs. Sylvester Schram and Rev. Glenn Kjellberg. These acts of kindness will always be remembered.

A LEIF FROM THE PAST — Andres Andrews, of the National Museum in Washington, D. C., shows the world famed "Kensington Stone" to Mrs. Lislotte Paulson, of Arlington, Va. The stone, which apparently carries a message written by a Viking band in the 14th century, was found near Kensington, Minn. An exact duplicate has been made and will be sent to the point of discovery.

YUGOSLAV JUSTICE

Belgrade (AP)—The people's court in the small town of Gnjilane has sentenced Bozhidar Stankovich to be shot for sabotaging the state economy in the tobacco industry.

The charges said he took bribes from tobacco producers in return for which he cut down the amount they were supposed by law to turn over to the government. Two accomplices were sentenced to fifteen years at forced labor and five others from two months to seven years on the same charges.

U OF M BAND VISITS HERE

Large Audience Was Deeply Impressed

The University of Michigan Concert Band played here last night and it will be many days before the people who thronged the high school auditorium to hear it will cease commenting on enjoyment and thrill of those two delightful hours.

Eighteen numbrs were presented. They varied in type from steppy numbers such as "Flapperette," to "Wagner's subline "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral, from Lohengrin: but every bit of it was quality music.

The director, in turn, praised the audience for its manifest music appreciation.

Dr. William D. Revelli, band conductor, explained at the outset that the repertoire of the band is extensive and for that reason no two of the concerts given are exactly alike. The one presented here began with the overture, the "Procession of the Nobles," from the opera "Mlada,' by Korsakov.

The rest of the program, in its order, follows:

Il Guarany Overture, Gomez.

Trumpet Trio "Three Trumpets" Agostini; played by Roger Jacobi, Graham Young and John Nelson.

Hora Staccato, Heifitz-Dinicu.

Suite in Eb, Holst.

Prima Donna, Gould; Mary Kelly, soloist.

Tribute to Fighting Men, arr Howland. Played as a tribute to Army Day with Russell Howland, asistant professor in School of Music directing the band personally.

My Hero, from the "Chocolate Soldier."

Amaprito Roco, Texidor.

Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral, Wagner. (By far the grandest and most impressive selection played during the evening.)

Emblem of Unity, Richards.

Summertime, Gerschwin. Trombone solo played by Joseph Skrynski.

El Capitan, Sousa.

Acordion Solo: Flapperette, Waltz in D Flat Major and Flight of the Bumblebee, Played by Herman Troppe. He scored heavily with the audience.

Rose Bowl Echoes (Dedicated to J. Joseph Herbert, member of the University board of regents) "Varsity," "College Days" (Vocal) and "Victors." The band was directed by the band's drum major, Noah Nepper.

As a special favor, two additional numbers, "Sabres" and "Stars and Stripes Forever," were presented.

J. Joseph Herbert introduced the director and the band at the outset of the concert.

Bethel Baptist Will Observe Family Nite

The Bethel Baptist church will observe family night Wednesday evening. Observance will begin with a pot luck supper followed by sound-movie program. After this will be a business session and the rest of the evening will be taken up with a social and fellowship hour.

Members and friends of the church are invited to participate.

BACK TO WORK ORDER AWAITED

Company and Union Sign Agreement Tuesday

Negotiations between the Inland Lime and Stone Company and Local No. 377 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, C. I. O. were finally concluded with the signing of a contract on April 6th.

The terms of settlement were a general wage increase of 9 cents per hour, which is equivalent to the 7½ percent offer made by the Company last December, a shift differential of 4 cents for the afternoon shift and 6 cents for the midnight shift and an improved vacation plan.

In a membership meeting held Monday evening, the Union decided to accept the Company offer which had been previously rejected.

This ends a labor dispute which has caused the Port Inland plant to be idle since January 1, a shutdown of 97 days which seriously affected the economy of the community. It is estimated that the loss in wages to employees during this period amounted to over $200,000.00 and that the Manistique area suffered a reduction in business volume greatly in excess of that amount. The new contract will be in effect until December 31, 1948.

A. W. Heitman, general superintendent, advises that schedules are being prepared calling the men back to work and estimates all men will be called back within a week, at which time full production will be resumed.

Window Display Emphasizes Army Day Observance

A window display, strikingly in keeping with army day sentiment is shown in the window of Multhaupt Brothers on Deer street.

A few old time pieces, including a Civil War saber and gun, are in the display, but most of the articles are World War II relics. Among these are a Russian machine gun, a Bazooka shell, a German automatic, a Belgian automatic, a German dragoon saber, a German dress knife, a British 38, a German officers dress cap and many others.

All of the articles shown are locally owned.

Marshall Plan To Be Extension Course Theme

Dr. Lawrence Preuss of the University of Michigan is the distinguished speaker to be presented here on Wednesday, April 14, under the auspices of University of Michigan Extension, president of the group announces. The meeting will be held at Manistique junior high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Preuss's subject is "Can the Marshall Plan Succeed?"

One of many University faculty members who rendered outstanding governmental service during the war, Dr. Preuss served for more than three years with the Department of State in various capacities. In 1943, he was appointed head of the legal branch of the Department's Division of International Security and Organization. In 1944, he became associate chief of the Division of International Organization Affairs, a division which he helped to establish. From November 1943 to May 1944, he was in London as adviser to the United States representative on the United Nations War Crimes Commission.

Dr. Preuss was also technical expert and assistant secretary at the Dumbarton Oaks Conversations in Washington in 1944. He was principal secretary of the United Nations conference of jurists in Washington in 1945 and was technical expert to the American delegation at the United Nations Conference on International Organization in San Francisco in 1945.

Dr. Preuss received his A. B, his master's degree, and his doctorate from the University of Michigan, where he is now professor of economics. He has also studied extensively in Europe.

SCOUT TROOP IS ORGANIZED

Brotherhood Of First Baptist Sponsors

A new Boy Scout troop is in the process of organization in Manistique.

With John Viergever as scoutmaster, and under the sponsorship of the First Baptist Church Brotherhood a meeting tonight will be off to a good start. Twelve boys have already enrolled.

Mr. Viergever, once a Boy Scout himself, has had some leadership training in scouting, and has spent much time in getting ready to take over this responsibility.

The sponsoring organization has chosen five active men to serve on the scouting committee, namely Clinton Leonard, Wallace Sidbeck, Wallace Severs, Virgil Arrowood and Clayton Reid. This committee will meet with the new Scouts at the Junior High Assembly Room next Monday evening to help effect organization on a permanent basis. The Rev. William Schobert as international representative, will also be at this meeting to give his active support of the program of scouting.

A training course for anyone interested in scouting will be offered by some experienced Scout leaders in the upper peninsula starting Monday night in the Junior High building and continuing for four consecutive Monday nights. Starting at 7:30 o'clock, this course will show scouting in a practical and interesting way. It is the hope of the sponsors that the response by adults to this training course will be as hearty as the way the new scouts are taking to their program.

Leafs 2-1 Favorites To Take Wings In Stanley Cup Finals

Toronto, April 7 (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, who clinched the National Hockey league title with a victory here over Detroit, meet the same Red Wings tonight in the first game of the final series for the Stanley Cup.

Around these parts the champions are 2 to 1 favorites to add the coveted trophy to their season's honors.

Detroit couldn't beat the Leafs on Toronto ice all year. In six contests Toronto won four times and two ended in ties. At Detroit each team won twice and they played two more ties.

Both here and in Detroit the Leafs held the upper hand in goal production. They outscored the Red Wings, 22 to 16, here and 15 to 11 in Detroit.

Toronto won its semifinal series from third place Boston, four games to one, and each of the victories was decisive. Detroit opened strong against the fourth place New York Rangers, winning two straight. Then the Rangers knotted the series at 2-2 before bowing, 4-2.

This is another best of seven set. The second game will be played here Saturday. Detroit will be host to the third game Sunday and the fourth game Tuesday. No additional dates have been announced as yet.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, April 7 (AP)—Things were very quiet along the 49th Street "beach," with most of the mob in Washington to see "The Rock" fight, but in his cubicle in the Garden building Nat Fleischer was giving off ideas, as usual . . . "Everywhere they're trying to change boxing rules to prevent injuries and deaths," Nat said "but there's no concerted action in the right direction . . . They just make the rule book and the handling of a fight more cumbersome . . . What is needed isn't new rules but strict adherence to and interpretation of the rules they have . . . take physical examinations; now the doctor gives a boy about ten minutes of superficial tests—on the day of a fight he goes over the entire card of ten fighters in about an hour . . . And most of them hesitate to reject a boy because they don't want to break up the card."

Sure Cure?

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, who does the examining here, has offered a proposal which Fleischer enthusiastically seconds as the best way of checking boxers' health . . . It is for the Athletic commission to establish a clinic, with all the modern equipment and a corps of specialists who could be summoned by the director . . . Each fighter would be required to undergo a thorough examination there twice a year—and the state would pay the cost out of boxing tax money . . . That's okay for a city like New York, but how about the kids from the small towns — they're the ones who'll get the least and need it the most.

Sports Before Your Eyes

All the signs floating in from Dodgerville indicate that Branch Rickey may be trying to cook up a deal for Pete Reiser. No telling where he'll go . . . On the first day of spring football practice at Minnesota, Bernie Bierman called out a line that averaged 236 pounds from tackle to tackle . . . Word from Louisiana is that when Earl K. Long takes office as governor, May 11, he'll fire the boxing and racing commissions and appoint new ones.

In preparation for Rainbow Baseball league competition, the Escanaba Bears will hold their first practice of the season at the city diamond at 6:30 this evening.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Gladstone's success in hockey this past season, after many years of effort in building up the sport, may go a long way toward improving skating facilities in Up-Bay town.

* * *

Gordon Haga and his cohorts have been working for many years to build a winning team. This year was the climax and it promises much for interesting rivalry in the future between Gladstone and Escanaba.

* * *

The Indians copped second place in the Upper Michigan Amateur Hockey league and beat the Hawks in the inter-city playoff. That's the tipoff for some hotely-contested battles in coming seasons.

* * *

But the discussion at the Indians' annual post-season meeting at Ed O'Leary's home was not all hockey. After hearing Johnny Lake's 1947-48 report, the enthusiasts discussed plans for a supervised skating program, including figure and speed skating as well as hockey, and considerable mention was made of procuring an indoor rink for next season.

* * *

Gladstone has only an outdoor rink, like the junior hockey rink in Escanaba beside the junior high school. During inclement weather, it had to play its home games at the Escanaba fairgrounds rink. Naturally, the Indians want an indoor rink of their own.

* * *

Developing junior hockey talent for future teams also came in for much discussion, a matter in which great strides were taken here this season under the supervision of Bob Grabowski of the city recreation department.

* * *

The Indians didn't just let the matter drop after the verbal airing. Johnny Lake, Ed O'Leary, Fred Pepin, Aino and Dick Maki, Walter Lake and Gordon Haga were named to a committee to keep ice activities rolling.

* * *

Cuff notes: The Monday night card in the fourth annual Escanaba silver gloves boxing tournament at the William Bonifas gym here will feature bouts between north siders and south siders . . . Never saw a town yet where that geographical factor didn't develop some hot rivalry . . . On Tuesday night, the card will feature bouts between Escanabans and out-of-towners . . . There are no reserved seats for the show . . . Just straight general admission . . . And the only charge is a nominal donation for incidental expenses.

* * *

The life of James Edward Manko, 26, of Iron Mountain, a baseball pitcher of renown in the Upper Peninsula, was snuffed out in a recent automobile accident on US-2 in Iron county near the Fortune lake bridge . . . He was a well-liked fellow and a fine pitcher who gave the game everything he had when he was in it . . . Employed by the Kimberly-Clark corporation in Niagara, Manko had hurled for both the Kingsford Cardinals and Niagara Badgers in the Northern Wisconsin Michigan Baseball league.

U. P. COACHES TO MEET HERE

Discussion Sessions On Friday, Saturday

The Upper Peninsula High School Coaches association will hold its annual spring business meeting in the Escanaba junior high school Friday and Saturday, it was announced this morning. A luncheon-meeting at the Delta hotel also is slated for Saturday noon.

The group will convene at the junior high at 7 Friday night for an open discussion headed by Omer LaJeunesse, of Iron Mountain, association vice-president. O. E. Wassberg, of Negaunee, secretary-treasurer, will head the discussion group Saturday morning, from 10 to noon, and C. C. Watson, Ishpeming, association president, will lead the discussion Saturday afternoon following the luncheon.

Among the subjects to be discussed are changes in the U. P. coaches clinic in Marquette, baseball, football rules, state athletic policies, basketball rules and a proposed recommendation that on alternate years the quarterfinals of the state basketball tournament for this region be held in the Upper Peninsula.

Several other matters also will be discussed.

Demaret Figures His Chances Good In Masters Golf

Augusta, Ga., April 7 (AP) — Jimmy Demaret's chances of retaining the Masters Golf Tournament title to become the event's first triple winner are not too good in the opinion of his fellow pros.

Demaret, they point out, hasn't done too well since winning the title a year ago despite winding up as the leading money winner of 1947. He is fourth in total winnings for the current tour, which ends with this 12th annual event, but he hasn't won a 1948 tournament.

In fact, after taking first money here last year with a 281, seven under par for the 72 holes, he has won only one main event—the Miami Open. He teamed with Ben Hogan, however, to win the inverness four-ball event in July.

But Demaret facetiously scoffs at the prediction that he'll finish no better than fourth. The pros in a poll picked Byron Nelson, Lloyd Mangrum and Bobby Locke to finish ahead of him.

Despite the fact he hasn't fared too well in practice rounds, which end today, Demaret says with a grin: "Don't worry. I was never as confident in my life or felt better. I'm just taking it easy as I always do when I'm after one of the big ones."

Pro Golfers Must Follow USGA Rules

Augusta, Ga., April 7 (AP)—Professional tournament golf beginning today will be played in accordance with rules sanctioned by the United States Golf association.

President Ed Dudley of the Professional Golf Association announced the change in policy last night at a dinner in his and Fielding Wallace's honor. Wallace is president of the USGA.

Dudley said the decision was reached last night at a meeting of the PGA executive committee.

The new policy apparently removes the basis for several controversies involving the two associations. The touring pros before today operated under rules of their own making.

Guerre was sidelined when he broke his leg making the only touchdown for Michigan in the 7 to 6 defeat by Kentucky last year.

Bay de Noc Ball League Will Meet Next Sunday

The final organization meeting of the Bay de Noc Baseball league will be held in the Swallow Inn in Rapid River next Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30, it was announced here yesterday by Edward Gibbs, of Perkins, league commissioner.

At the first organization meeting for the coming season, Gibbs was reelected commissioner and Victor Tebo, of Nahma, was named secretary-treasurer.

It is expected the same eight teams will compete in the circuit this season. They are Fayette, Garden, Nahma, Cooks, Rapid River, Little Lake, Perkins and Rock.

Last season was the inaugural for the Bay de Noc wheel.

Eskymos To Compete In 5-Team Circuit

The Escanaba Eskymo baseball team will compete this season in a high school baseball conference composed of Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Gwinn and Escanaba and also will meet such outside nines as St. Joseph's, Iron Mountain and Kingsford.

Coach James L. Rouman will issue his first baseball call this week, and if weather conditions remain favorable, it is expected the diamond candidates will hit the outdoor practice field next week.

The tentative schedule for the new high school ball conference follows:

May 1—Negaunee at Escanaba, Marquette at Ishpeming.

May 4—Escanaba at Gwinn, Marquette at Negaunee.

May 6—Gwinn at Marquette, Ishpeming at Negaunee

May 7—Gwinn at Ishpeming, Escanaba at Marquette.

May 11—Negaunee at Gwinn, Ishpeming at Escanaba.

May 13—Ishpeming at Gwinn, Marquette at Escanaba.

May 15—Gwinn at Negaunee, Escanaba at Ishpeming.

U-M NETTERS LOSE

Charlottesville, Va., April 7 (AP) —The University of Michigan tennis team dropped five of the six singles matches as it bowed to the University of Virginia 6 to 3 yesterday. Andy Paton, playing No. 1 for the Wolverines, scored the lone Michigan victory in the singles when he upset Harold Burrows of Virginia, 7-5, 6-1.

BRONCHO NINE WINS

Athens, O., April 7 (AP)—A six-hit pitching performance by Southpaw Gene Schlukebir gave Western Michigan College's baseball team a 5-3 win over Ohio University yesterday. The victory evened the two game series, as Ohio University took the opener 4-3 Monday.

Giant Guillotine Chops Airplanes

Norfolk, Va.,—A giant guillotine with a thousand-ton blade is busy daily here at the Naval Air Station, chopping obsolete and wrecked airplanes into sections so that the metals may be salvaged.

When the great knife is dropped 26 feet from the top of its standard, its force is enough to make a clean cut through the fuselage, wing or tail sections of a discarded plane, resulting in pieces small enough to put in melting pots for reduction to ingots. The blade of the guillotine is rasied by electric power; it falls by gravity. The machine can handle 16 planes per day.

The salvage materials obtained from planes consist of heavy steel, light iron, aluminum, condemned tires, instruments and miscellaneous items. Reusable accessories are kept for future applications. All scrap batteries or other material containing lead are stockpiled for future military use.

Whale oil, which used to be used in lamps is now used largely to make soap and glycerine for munitions.

PIN MATCH BREWING

Detroit, April 7 (AP)Prospects of another national match game championship clash between the title-holding Kathryn's of Chicago and the E & B team of Detroit held chief interest at the American Bowling Congress today. The Chicago team defeated the Detroiters by 282 pins last month, but because of events during that match, the Bowling Proprietors Association of America is to consider a proposal that they have a return match on the ABC lanes.

City Basketball Meet Begins At Junior High Gym Tonight

Six of the seven competing teams in the annual city basketball tournament will see action tonight at the junior high with games at 7, 8, and 9 o'clock. The seventh team, Harnischfeger Corporation, drew a bye and will play its first contest tomorrow night at 7.

Mike's Bar, American league winners, meet City Drug in the opener tonight. The second tilt brings together Cloverland College and the Liberty Clowns. This evening's program closes with the Independents clashing with State Bank.

The tournament semifinals will be run off tomorrow night and the finals will be played Friday.

This year's tourney also includes a battle for consolation honors. All teams will play at least two games. If a team wins its first game it will play its second contest in the winner's brackett. It can then be eliminated by a single loss.

However, if any quintet drops its initial game it moves into the loser's bracket where it must be defeated a second time to be eliminated. If a club wins all of its contests in the loser's bracket, it will qualify for consolation honors. This arrangement differs from the straight elimination setup. It guarantees every entry a minimum of two games.

Mike's Bar is a heavy favorite to take first place, with Cloverland College and the State Bank rated as dark horses Either the Liberty Clowns or the Independents should win consolation honors.

National Open 'For Men Only' Babe Didrikson Zaharias Told

New York, April 7 (AP)—An official "for men only" today barred the fabulous Babe Didrikson Zaharias from the National Open golf championship.

The Babe, who has accomplished amazing feats in widely assorted fields of sport, said she would like to play in the 1948 tournament at Riviera Country Club at Los Angeles, June 10-12.

The U. S. Golf Association told her yesterday she wasn't welcome. It said the tournament always had been intended to be strictly stag. And declared:

"Applicants must be men who are either professional golfers, or amateurs with handicaps not exceeding three strokes. Thus, the U.S.G.A. has declined an informal entry submitted in behalf of Mrs. George Zaharias."

No woman had ever before sought to enter the tournament which was first played in 1895.

Mrs. Zaharias won 17 women's tournaments in succession last year before turning professional. Her titles included the American and British Amateur championships.

After learning of the U.S.G.'s decision, Mrs. Zaharias said she was very disappointed. "I only wanted to qualify," she said in Los Angeles. "And if I qualified I feel I would be good enough to make a showing in the open. However, I respect the U.S.G.A. very much. They have been fair and broad-minded to me. If they say 'no' I'm willing to go along. Maybe next year it will be different."

The Babe had one parting shot. "I still think I'm good enough to play."

NWM PLAYOFFS ON SATURDAY

Escanaba Five Travels To Hermansville

Sidelined by the Escanaba invitation basketball tournament and the city tourney, the championship playoffs of the Northern Wisconsin Michigan Basketball league will get underway in Hermansville Saturday night with the season champion Escanaba Delta Hardwares opposing the Hermansville Silver Foxes in the first of a best two of three series.

The opening tipoff will be at 8:15. Scores of ardent Hardware fans, who have seen their pride and joy win practically every independent basketball honor of note in the Upper Peninsula over two seasons of play, are expected to make the jaunt to Hermansville for the game.

The Hardwares moved into the finals with a victory over the fourth-place Negaunee Beau Chateaus, and the Foxes advanced with a triumph over Stambaugh, third place tie. Hermansville finished the season in second place.

Horace Smith, MSC Grid Ace, Having Trouble With Books

East Lansing, April 7 (AP)—Thrown for a slight loss by his studies, Horace Smith, versatile Jackson speedster, showed up for spring football practice ahead of schedule at Michigan State College this week.

Smith, a left halfback, was the team's leading scorer with 30 points last season, although he did not take the Hawaiian trip. Toward the end of the season he surprised by playing the right and left hand backfield slots alternately.

With the indoor track team this year, Smith paced the Spartans in the high and low hurdles and set several fieldhouse records. He was declared ineligible for outdoor track however because his marks for the last term fell a few scant points below the elegibility requirements.

He is still eligible for spring football practice and the coaches expressed no concern over his ability to boost up his marks again so he will be able to play this fall.

Full Year Needed To Compete at MSC

East Lansing, April 7 (AP) — Tightening of eligibility requirements for Michigan State College Athletes was announced today by Howard C. Rather, chairman of the elegibility committee.

Rather said MSC would revert to the strict pre-war procedure of requiring one full calendar year at the college before a student who has competed in intercollegiate or intermural athletics at another college can play under Spartan colors.

During and immediately after the war athletes were allowed to compete after completing three full quarters of academic work.

If enforced this winter, the present ruling would have counted out star center Bob Brannum of the MSC basketball team, a transfer from the University of Kentucky. No key athletes will be hit by the new ruling.

Home Town Unkind To Trucks; Tiges Bow To Birmingham

Atlanta, Ga., April 7 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, who lost a surprising 8-7 decision to Birmingham yesterday, tangle with Atlanta—another Southern Association club—under the arc lights tonight.

Either Paul "Dizzy" Trout or Art Houtteman appeared a likely starter for the Detroiters.

Virgil Trucks, who allowed only one run in 23 innings work against major league clubs this spring, was the Tiger starting pitcher yesterday.

Trucks, pitching before his hometown audience, was tagged for five runs in the second inning and yielded all eight Birmingham runs in his seven inning workout.

Detroit struck back in the fourth as it staged a five run spree of its own.

Wakefield opened with a single and Wertz duplicated it. Outlaw walked to load the bases and Vico then singled, scoring Wakefield and Wertz.

Trucks, Overmire (8) and Erautt, Riebe (7); Ronay, Yaylian (7) and Salata.

BUMS ROLL ON

Tulsa, Okla., April 7 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers continue to roll unhindered through minor league opposition. The number one team scored its 20th straight victory at Oklahoma City yesterday. The Indians managed to snap a Brooklyn streak of 24 scoreless innings when they pushed across a run in the eighth. The Brooks met Tulsa of the Texas League today.

Lesnevich Finds Title Paying Off

Chicago, April 7 (AP)Light heavyweight champion Gus Lesnevich says he's never had it so good.

Thumbing $1,500 as his share of a 4-round sparring exhibition against Chicago's Lee Campione in nearby Michigan City, Ind., last night, Gus recalled:

"I won the title in 1941 and went to war in 1942. At that time the championship was only worth a cup of coffee, that is if I chipped in a dime or nickle. But now, brother, it's paying off well!"

Gus will defend his crown in London on July 26 against England's Freddie Mills. In the meantime he's cleaning up on the exhibition circuit.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to all the kind relatives, neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and grandfather, George Kulack. We are very grateful to Rev. Fr. Francis Gimski for his consoling words and other manifestations of sympathy, to the Rock High School personnel and class of 1948, to those who served as pallbearers, sent floral and spiritual bouquets, donated the use of their cars and to all others who aided us in so many ways. The memory of these acts of kindness will always remain with us.

Signed:

Radar Controlled Airport Apparatus Will Be Installed

Washington, (SS) — Improved radar ground-controlled approach apparatus (GCA) will soon be installed on five additional civil airfields, the Civil Aeronautics Administration revealed. War-developed equipment is already in use at three civilian airports.

The first of these new equipments will be at Los Angeles Municipal field, and the other four at Cleveland, Atlanta, St. Louis and Boston. The three ports already using GCA equipment are at Washington, New York and Chicago.

The GCA system is one in which ground-based observers keep constant watch of the surrounding skies with radar scanning outfits. They are able to detect approaching planes even in the most dense fogs. The observers use radio communication to direct the aircraft pilots to a safe landing on runways which the pilots are unable to see until close to the ground. Many hundreds of safe landings have been made by military planes with the help of GCA apparatus, and the present civilian installations have proven their worth.

RECREATIONAL NEEDS LISTED

Board Asks Funds For More Facilities

The urgent need for expanded facilities to meet the recreation requirements in Escanaba was discussed at considerable length at a special meeting of the city recreation board Tuesday evening at the city hall. The board recommended that the city council consider adequate appropriation to meet the requirements.

The facilities which are regarded as urgent include the following, none of which can be provided from budgetary funds of the recreation department:

Seeding and landscaping at the bathing beach, installation of a diving platform, boat ramp, life guard tower, swing set, drinking fountains and an additional boat at the beach.

Levelling and seeding of Webster field. Installation of wading pool and a new backstop at the softball diamond.

Grading and seeding at the West Side athletic field near the city water tower, construction of a diamond, new backstop and installation of playground equipment.

Installation of new backstops at the junior high diamond and at the small playground adjacent to St. Patrick's church.

Grading and levelling Royce Park. Installation of additional playground equipment and installation of a wading pool.

Construction of a ball field at the property adjacent to the veterans housing project and installation of playground equipment.

Completion of dugouts at the city baseball park and improvements to the diamond and the outfield.

Resurfacing of asphalt tennis courts at Ludington park, lighting of shuffleboard and tennis courts; relocation of softball diamond and installation of new backstop.

Construction of addition to city recreation center to meet expanded recreational needs in that area and renovation of the first floor of the recreation building.

Acquisition of areas adjacent to Junior high school, Royce Park and Webster playground.

The recreation board was informed that the city recreation department has sufficient credits to operate the department for another month or two without exceeding the department's budget for the present fiscal year. Additional funds will be necessary to complete the fiscal year which ends June 30, however.

Dogpatch Turnip Termite No Joke

East Lansing, April 7. (AP)—Just like it says in the comics, there is a turnip termite.

Prof. Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department at Michigan State college, said to the uniniated the insect is known as the turnip aphid. To Hutson and his follow entomologists it's referred to as the rhopalosiphum pseudobrassicae.

ALCOHOL EXPLOSION—Norman Lauscher, 22, of Escanaba, was critically burned Tuesday in an alcohol explosion in the rear of the Montgomery Ward building. The alcohol container is shown here as it appeared after the explosion, with one end blown out. A pen and automatic pencil that Lauscher carried in his pocket were badly burned in the fire, which seared Lauscher's body. These pictures were taken by Al Wiles, local amateur photographer.

Thomas Boyle, 80, Veteran Milwaukee City Employe, Dies

Thomas Boyle, 80, retired veteran employe of the City of Milwaukee, who had been making his home here with his niece, Mrs. Tony Bottesi, 407 South 12th street, died at 11 o'clock this morning at St. Francis hospital. He had been ill for one week.

Mr. Boyle was born in Pennsylvania, August 15, 1868. He came to Escanaba as a young man and lived here for several years before going to Milwaukee, where he was a city employe for 47 years. He retired 9 years ago.

Surviving are two brothers, John and Charles of Marquette; and three nieces, Mrs. George W. Carr, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Vance White, of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Bottesi of this city.

The body was taken to the Allo funeral home. Arrangements for the services have not been completed.

JOHN L. LEWIS FIGHTS ORDER TO END TIEUP

gency provision of the Taft-Hartley Act, under which the anti-strike order was issued last Saturday.

"Violation of the miners' right to stop work and freedom from involuntary servitude is explicit in the court's direction that the union shall order the miners to return to their employment," the Lewis motion said.

It added:

"Since the court may not legally commit the union members employed in bituminous coal fields to involuntary servitude, it may not legally effectuate such result through its mandatory order that defendants accomplish such status for the union's members."

The order by Justice Matthew F. McGuire directed the union to end the strike, and Lewis and mine operators to negotiate settlement of the pension dispute that touched off the walkout March 15.

Prospects of union-operator talks to end the strike apparently had vanished, however.

A top federal official disclosed that the government also was considering —although no decision was reached up to early today—advising the court that two major operators also had failed to obey the McGuire order.

They are Benjamin F. Fairless, head of U. S. steel corporation whose extensive "captive" mines turn out coal for its own use, and George M. Humphrey of Cleveland, chairman of Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, world's largest commercial mining firm.

Nurse Found Slain After Room Fire at School in Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., April 7 (AP)—Investigators sought today to unravel the mystery slaying at Bolles military school of a trim 37-year-old nurse, member of an old Maryland eastern shore family.

The victim, Mrs. Fred W. Lewis, was found beaten to death yesterday in her fire-charred quarters at the school's infirmary. A deep three-inch gash was over her right eye and county medical examiner R. Y. H. Thomas said she had died of a blow on the head by a blunt instrument.

Firemen who answered an alarm from the school found her body under a mattress and bed clothing after flames in the room had been extinguished. She was dressed in a blouse, brassiere, shoes and slip.

Officers last night said they had not been able to find her husband, a traveling salesman for a beauty shop supply company in Atlanta.

Charles H. Buchanan Dies In Green Bay

Green Bay, Wis.—Charles H. Buchanan, 68, 929 Harvey street, died at his home early Tuesday morning after a lingering illness. He had been a lifelong resident of Green Bay and was a Spanish-American war veteran. His wife died seven years ago.

Survivors include four sons, William, Henry, John and Merlin, all of Green Bay; three daughters, Mrs. George Biebel and Mrs. Henry Zeutzius, Green Bay, and Mrs. Alton Upchurch, Manistique, Mich., five grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Tony Peletari, Milwaukee.

Charles Cota, Sr., Danforth Pioneer, Dies In Garden

Charles Cota, sr., 86, retired pioneer farmer of the Danforth community, died this morning at 9:20 o'clock at the home of his son, John N. Cota, in Garden, where he had been living for the past two years.

Born in San Sofie, Canada, January 11, 1862, Mr. Cota came to this country 68 years ago, and settled in Danforth 64 years ago, coming here from Houghton. He farmed in that community until his retirement.

He was a member of Holy Family parish of Flat Rock.

Surviving are two sons and five daughters: Charles E., of Danforth; John N., Garden; Miss Leontine, Escanaba; Mrs. Fred (Caroline) St. Vincent, Arnold; Mrs. Urgelle (Georgiana) LaBonte, Spalding; Mrs. William (Mary) Nutkins, Detroit and Mrs. John (Della) Robinson Detroit. He also leaves 23 grandchildren and 34 great grandchildren. His wife died in 1933.

The body was brought here to the Anderson funeral home. Arrangements for the services will be completed Thursday.

Bean Is Speaker At Stephenson

Problems facing township boards, village councils and boards of education were aired at an all-day Institute for Local Government held Monday in Stephenson under sponsorship of the Community School Service Program of the Stephenson Community Coordinating Council. The sessions attracted more than 100 persons.

After a general assembly the institute divided into group meetings and it soon became evident what was most interesting to the respective groups. The township officers wanted to talk about tax assessments; the school boards wanted something done to make it easier to raise the 15 mill tax limitation for the school buildings purposes, while the village officers concerned themselves with drafting budgets that will stay within anticipated revenues.

The township group meeting, attended by all of the supervisors who are the assessing officers in their respective townships, heard a warning from George Bean, former city manager of Escanaba and present Pontiac city manager, to get the county's tax assessments in order before the state moves in and forces the county to do so.

Menominee county's valuation, including the city, is approximately $22,000,000, but the state thinks the real figure is nearer $28,000,000, based on about an 80 per cent assessment of actual value. Bean told the supervisors that if the state legislature should, as proposed, take one mill of the property tax for state purposes (it all stays at home now), the state will demand its one mill on the state's equalized value of $28,000,000 and not on the county's assessment of $22,000,000.

Bean suggested that the county engage some trained man on assessments to work with supervisors at the time they are making up their annual tax rolls, or hire an assessing agency, as was done by Delta county, Escanaba and Gladstone a few years ago. The latter course, however, is expensive and cost Delta county about $25,000, Bean said.

Dr. A. C. Fawcett Killed In Accident Near Bethany, Mo.

Dr. Arthur C. Fawcett, 75, of Rochester, Minn., father of John Fawcett, of Escanaba, was killed Tuesday morning in a head-on automobile collision near Bethany, Mo. Dr. Fawcett, accompanied by Mrs. Fawcett and Mrs. William Dando, mother of Dr. and Mrs. Fawcett's daughter-in-law, were returning from Arizona. Mrs. Fawcett and Mrs. Dando sustained only minor injuries. Roger Jackson, of Rideway, Missouri, driver of the other automobile involved in the crash, escaped injury.

The accident occurred on highway US-69 south of Bethany at ten o'clock Tuesday morning.

Dr. Fawcett had been practicing in Rochester, Minnesota for 47 years.

Surviving besides Mrs. Fawcett are four sons and one daughter. They are Ray, of Winona, Minn.; Arthur, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Dr. Joseph Fawcett, of Rochester; John, of Escanaba; and Mrs. John McNamara, of Galena, Ill.

John Fawcett left this morning for Rochester to attend the funeral services. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

SIGLER UNDER PRESSURE FOR HIGHER TAXES

to increase the 15-mill tax limit for 20 years by a majority vote of the people, and to float a $15,000,000 bond issue for mental hospital construction.

In the House, the committee on revision and amendment of the constitution reported out Sigler's proposal for a constitutional amendment to extend the governor's term to four years. As proposed by Sigler, the amendment would also have permitted the governor to appoint the attorney general and secretary of state, but this feature was missing from the committee version.

The committee also released for debate on the floor the governor's proposal to remove from the November ballot the question of repealing the sales tax diversion amendment.

Having started out with a determination to withhold his program until the legislature showed signs of behaving, Sigler has handed the legislature six messages, four of them marked "final" and at least one more was known to be due.

Senator Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) introduced a resolution in the Senate Tuesday asking the governor to let the lawmakers consider granting unemployment compensation employes of a struck plant who are not on strike themselves. Under existing law all employes of a struck plant are denied benefits.

TEACHERS MAY GO ON STRIKE

$200 Bonus Requested At Iron Mountain

Iron Mountain, Mich.—Unless their demands for a $200 cost-of-living bonus and a new salary schedule, based on recommendations of the Michigan Education association, are met before the end of the week, members of the Classroom Teachers' organization of the Iron Mountain schools—including all teachers excepting those employed in administive positions—are prepared to strike on Monday, April 12.

Notice of the pending strike, approved at a meeting of the organization held at 4 yesterday afternoon in the high school library, was served this morning on John J. Jelsch, superintendent, and members of the board of education. Notices were signed by Miss Elizabeth McQuade, secretary of the organization.

Jelsch said what action, if any, is taken on the ultimatum rests with the board which, he indicated, may be ready tomorrow to make a statement.

In the meantime, Silvio Egizii, high school instructor, who is president of the Classroom Teachers' organization, issued an ultimatum of his own, in which he termed the proposed strike "unethical and unprofessional." Action was taken yesterday in opposition to his stand and without his approval, according to Egizii.

Los Angeles Women Sue 'King of Kings' For Property Grab

Los Angeles, April 7 (AP)—Joe Jeffers, founder of the Temple of Yahweh, is accused in a damage suit of telling his flock that the Russians would bomb the United States in 1947 and kill everyone but them.

Jeffers' accusers, Mrs. Anna Lee and Mrs. Caroline Brunell of Los Angeles, seek $12,857 damages, saying that his story led them to part with valuable property. They allege that Jeffers, now serving time in McNeil Island federal prison for auto theft, represented to his congregation that they would move into the White House and that he would rule the United States as the "King of Kings."

The plaintiffs allege they were told they would be "Queens under the new order, wearing diamond-studded crowns." They also said that Jeffers told them the "Flying Saucers" seen in the skies last year, were weapons manned by Japanese.
